Global defence biggies to face govt's wrath

Ministry of defence set to issue final warning for executing just $2.4 bn worth of offset commitments as against $13 bn

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

THE Union Ministry of Defence (MoD) has decided to crack the whip to get top foreign defence companies to honour their offset commitments linked to multi-billion-dollar contracts received from India.

The Defence Acquisition Council (DAC), which is the apex body of the MoD for finalising procurement for the three services, is scheduled to meet at the end of this month. The review committee that prepares the agenda for the DAC is scheduled to meet on May 11. Sources said offset default is one of the subjects that would come up at the DAC. The MoD, according to sources, is preparing to issue a final warning to the defaulters with a message that if they do not deliver on their offset promise, the government would be forced to bar them from any future bidding.

The biggest names in the global defence industry have won contracts to supply a range of products — from airplanes to missiles, helicopters and guns — to India. As per the government of India's defence offset policy 2005, 30% of the value of the contract has to be spent in India by companies winning Indian defence contracts. Over the last 15 years, offset commitments to the tune of $13 billion have been made by foreign original equipment manufacturers (OEMs). But these companies have so far executed contracts worth only $2.4 billion.

Sources said the defaulting OEMs that have been issued offset show-cause notices are: Russian Aircraft Corporation (MiG) for a $964 million contract signed in 2008 for the upgrade of 69 MiG-29 fighters; Boeing of US for a $1.09 billion contract signed in 2010 for the supply of 10 heavy-lift aircraft; Rafael Advanced Defense Systems for a $200 million contract signed in 2014 for the supply of Barak missiles; Elbit Systems of Israel for $270 million contract signed in 2014 for the supply of thermal imaging fire control systems for T-72 tanks; BAE Systems' GCS International Limited for $542 million contract for the supply of 140 ultra-light howitzer guns; Dassault Aviation, Safran, Thales of France for $8.7 billion contract signed in 2016 for the supply of 36 Rafale fighters; Elta Systems of Israel for the supply of air route surveillance radars; etc.

What about existing 124A cases, asks SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday asked the Centre to clarify its stand on pending and future sedition cases till such time the Centre re-examines the validity of Section 124A of the Indian Penal Code, 1860. The bench gave the Centre a day to respond. "We will take into consideration the government has taken cognisance of the issue and is reconsidering the law," said the bench headed by Chief Justice N V Ramana.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta said the government will examine the provision and the hearing should be deferred till then. He argued the reconsideration will be at the level of the executive because it involves the sovereignty and integrity of the nation.

Senior advocate Kapil Sibal, appearing for the petitioners, said people are being arrested because of this provision and this would not be right for them. "The Constitution does not say this... It is for the judiciary to consider whether something is constitutional or not," he said, adding Jawaharlal Nehru had called 124A obnoxious.

The bench, also comprising judges Surya Kant and Hima Kohli, asked how the misuse of the provision will be dealt at the ground level as local police operates it the most. The apex court is hearing a batch of petitions challenging the sedition law.

Shoot-at-sight orders in Lanka

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

AMID sporadic violence across Sri Lanka with cases of rioting in some pockets for the second successive day, President Gotabaya Rajapaksa empowered the Ministry of Defence to issue shoot-at-sight orders against looters of public property. As his brother Mahinda resigned as prime minister on Monday, the next step is to put in place an new interim government.

Since the security situation continues to be fluid, Gotabaya moved into the Defence Headquarters in the Jayawardenepura Kotte complex from the Presidential house, while Mahinda vacated his official residence at Temple Trees and shifted to the Naval Base at Trincomalee.

"The frontrunners for the PM include Karu Jayasuriya (former Speaker and independent candidate). Others in the race include Dullas Alahapperuma, Nimal Siripala De Silva (labour minister) and Anura Priyadharshana Yapa. The President had called an all-party meeting today, which didn't take place," a Sri Lankan policy expert told TNIE.

The Speaker had sought to convene Parliament on Tuesday but it was deferred in view of the volatile situation. Protestors have been demanding that Gotabaya, too, step down, but he is unlikely to yield for now.

MAHINDA FLEES TO NAVAL BASE

Mahinda, along with his family, was evacuated from his official residence and provided shelter at the Trincomalee Naval Base. Right through Monday night, mobs made abortive attempts to enter Temple Trees, his official residence. At dawn on Tuesday, the police fired tear gas and warning shots against mobs so as to facilitate Mahinda's evacuation. When people learn of him taking refuge at the base, they started a fresh protest in its vicinity

Accused executed acid attack in cold blood

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

CHILLING details of the fugitive acid attack accused, Nagesh Babu, suggest that he had not only planned the dastardly act well in advance, he had also meticulously worked out ways to destroy digital evidence to cover his tracks.

Sources on condition of anonymity told The New Indian Express that Nagesh, who ran a small garment factory, had "sold all his garment stocks and machines days before he decided to attack the victim -- a 24-year-old girl -- on April 28," said informed sources.

"He had two mobile phones, which he reformatted to destroy all digital evidence that would have come handy to the police to track him. He left one phone behind, at home and the other was found on a highway in Hoskote. Both the phones have been reformatted. On April 27, a day before he attacked the girl with acid, Nagesh had reportedly told one of his close relatives that the next day they would see him on television," the sources added. "He had deviously and in cold blood planned the acid attack days in advance after the girl turned down his advances for a relationship," they said.

The police have formed 10 teams and are on the hunt for Nagesh. "He is not using any electronic device which is making it difficult to track his movements," said sources. They added that despite the obvious challenges, the police are "confident" of getting him. P5

BBMP polls: SC sets two-week limit, state seeks legal opinion

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday said he would seek a legal opinion on the next step to be taken to hold Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) polls. The announcement came after the Supreme Court directed the State Election Commission (SEC) of Madhya Pradesh on Tuesday to hold pending urban local body elections for which the notification has to be issued within two weeks.

As the delimitation process for the wards is not yet completed, government authorities are now in a dilemma whether to hold the civic polls for the newer 243 wards, or the older 198 wards.

The apex court's order stated that Madhya Pradesh can go ahead with the local body polls without the Other Backward Classes (OBC) quota. Polls cannot be delayed for urban local bodies (ULBs) that have completed their five-year terms, it added.

The Supreme Court ruling is applicable to all ULBs who have completed five years and are due for polls, including BBMP.

Bommai, who is in New Delhi, said BJP is ready to face any polls including BBMP, taluk and zilla panchayat. P4

FATHER: MAKERS WERE SERIOUS ON MAJ SANDEEP BIOPIC

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE much-waited multilingual biopic on martyr Major Sandeep Unnikrishnan -- 'Major' -- has Telugu actor Adivi Sesh playing the lead role of the hero of 26/11. The actor has also written the script for the film.

Major Unnikrishnan's father, K Unnikrishnan, told The New Indian Express that the filmmakers of 'Major', including Sesh, met him three years ago about the biopic on his illustrious son. "Initially, I didn't agree to their film, but in due course of time, I realised that they were serious. Many similar offers had come in the past, but there was an element of seriousness in these people. We had few meetings with Adivi Sesh because he wanted to know about Sandeep," said Unnikrishnan.

He added that the film crew spent a lot of time getting to know his son better. "They also got in touch with Sandeep's teachers at the Frank Anthony Public School, where he had studied from nursery to Class 12 and met his coursemates and friends," he added.

Going down the memory lane of thoughts of their only child, who gave the supreme sacrifice for the sake of the country during the Mumbai carnage, was not easy for the parents. "It is not easy to describe Sandeep. I told them that we had brought him up like any other child. He had some good qualities," said the father of the 26/11 martyr. P6

More cyclones, thunderstorms in future: Experts

Rainfall pattern changing; Report on climate change submitted to govt but no action taken

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

CLIMATOLOGISTS and climate change experts have warned that the number of thunderstorms, thundershowers and incandescent rainfall during the pre-monsoon period will intensify in the years to come.

Assessment of weather models prepared by researchers and experts from IISc and Empri has thrown up a changing pattern. India Meteorological Department (IMD) officials state that thundershowers are increasing during the pre-monsoon season, and admit to a rise in severity over the years. This has also prompted IMD officials and researchers to count the number of thunderstorms that have occurred on a daily basis during the past few years, and not just assess rain damage.

According to the IMD, in March 2022, Bengaluru experienced five thunderstorm days, the number went up to seven in April, and to nine in May so far. A senior IMD official said: "The formation of cyclones in the Arabian Sea and Bay of Bengal is also on the rise. But for areas to get more rainfall, low pressure areas are required and not cyclones, which are associated with wind, and when intense, they cause more damage. Over the years, the number of cyclones is also increasing."

Another IMD official said the intensity of thunderstorms has increased in North Karnataka, which would earlier experience moderate rainfall. Hubballi and Belagavi are experiencing thundershowers which are common in coastal areas, or those that hit Bengaluru.

Retired IISc professor NH Ravindranath said climate change has brought a change in rainfall pattern. Projections by Empri have shown that high-intensity rainfall will increase in the years to come. A report on this was submitted to the central and state governments for action, but nothing has been done. There is an urgent need for a good disaster management plan, which is still on paper, he said.

Indu K Murthy, principal research scientist, Centre for Study of Science, Technology and Policy (C-Step), said global and national models show that districts in interior Karnataka will experience rainfall, and last year's heavy flooding should serve as an alarm bell. She warned that if emission levels are not controlled, rain-related damage and thunderstorms will continue.

Prof G Bala, Professor, Centre for Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences, Divecha Centre for Climate Change, IISc, said it is typical for the southern peninsula to experience heavy pre-monsoon showers, especially along the eastern side of the Eastern Ghats. Such showers usually don't occur along coastal Karnataka, but over the years, these areas are also experiencing heavy rainfall.

Prof Bala pointed out that even as pre-monsoon showers are becoming common and temperatures are rising, the frequency and intensity of rainfall is increasing, and needs to be watched.

DULL AND RAINY DAY AHEAD

BENGALURU: Cyclone Asani will bring rainfall coupled with thundershowers over most parts of south interior Karnataka for the next 24 hours, the India Meteorological Department (IMD) has forecast. The weatherman has asked people to be cautious and alert. BBMP and Bescom officials are also on alert to ensure there are no untoward incidents. IMD-Bengaluru Director-in-charge Geeta Agnihotri said Asani's movement will impact Karnataka's fringes. Heavy rainfall over most parts of south interior Karnataka, with strong winds blowing at the speed of 30-40 kmph, have been forecast for the next 24 hours. The chilly weather and cloudy skies have left citizens delighted, though those residing in low-lying areas are worried that rainwater could gush into their homes.

PKs need basic facilities soon: BBMP Chief

BENGALURU: BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath on Tuesday said basic facilities, especially drinking water and toilets, should be provided to pourakarmikas (PKs) at the earliest. After holding an interaction with PKs, he said they had listed demands like uniforms, sarees and most importantly water and toilet. According to engineers, 225 places have been identified for setting up mobile toilets, but at least 600 are needed. In areas like in the east zone's mustering centre, the location is next to a government hospital, and the dean has been told to make facilities for PKs to use toilets on their campus. Such arrangements will be done in other places also, he added. Special Commissioner, projects, BBMP, Ravindra N, said engineers have been directed to keep drains clean. In the east zone alone, 71 vulnerable flood-prone points have been listed.

AAP tears into govt over stadium gallery collapse

BENGALURU: Following the collapse of the Atal Bihari Vajpayee Stadium gallery in HSR Layout barely two months after its inauguration, members of the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) held a protest and demanded an investigation. The Opposition Congress also attacked the BJP government and alleged that rampant corruption by the latter is destroying "Brand Karnataka". The protesters alleged that BJP workers behaved like hooligans against AAP workers, who visited the place to expose the poor construction work. Bengaluru AAP president Mohan Dasari said, "The gallery roof has collapsed barely two months being inaugurated by CM Basavaraj Bommai. This is an example of the 40% commission corruption of the BJP government and local MLA Sathish Reddy. We will remove BJP, which is corrupt as well as a hooligan party, from the power".

Tough measures in place for CET to recruit teachers

BENGALURU: After the PSI recruitment scam, the State education department is taking precautionary measures to ensure a foolproof Common Entrance Test to recruit 15,000 teachers, to be held on May 21 and 22. Minister for Primary and Secondary Education B C Nagesh said tough action would be initiated against officials who support any malpractice. He said teachers will be recruited to teach English, Social Science, Maths and Science, and Biological Science for Classes 6 to 8. As many as 1,06,083 people have applied for the posts. The exam will be held at 435 centres, Nagesh said. Educational programme 'Kalika Chetharike' is scheduled to be taken up from May 16 to improve the quality of learning among government schoolchildren, he said.

'Will discuss with experts on holding BBMP polls without delimitation'

ON the Supreme Court direction, he said they will study the court order and take a suitable decision. "We have yet to receive the court order. I have told the advocate general to study the order. The court order is applicable to all the states. We will also discuss it with the State Election Commission. We will take action as per their directions," he said.

Reacting to Congress leaders questioning the BJP's readiness to face Palike, zilla and taluk panchayat elections, he said, "Let Congress leaders mind the affairs of their own party. They are fighting among themselves at public meetings. We have toured the entire state and prepared for zilla and taluk panchayat polls. We have held meetings to prepare for BBMP elections too. We will study the Supreme Court order and take an appropriate decision."

Revenue Minister R Ashoka said that if the Supreme Court order has to be followed, they have to conduct polls for BBMP with 198 wards. The delimitation process is yet to get over, but it is in the completion stage. We are ready for polls now," he said.

Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) working president Ramalinga Reddy said the government does not have the will to conduct the polls. "Regarding delimitation, the BBMP Chief Commissioner has not called any meeting with the local MLAs. Because of the government's apathy, OBC candidates did not get justice," he added.

The term of the BBMP Council came to an end in September 2020, and a new Council has not been elected since then.

In December 2020, the Karnataka High Court directed the state government to conduct elections to 198 wards within six weeks. But the state government filed a petition before the Supreme Court, pointing at the BBMP Act that shows 243 wards. State Election Commissioner Basavaraju said as the Supreme Court has directed states to conduct polls and issue notifications within two weeks, it is up to the state government to decide whether to go ahead with the polls for 198 or 243 wards. "We are ready to conduct the polls," he added.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath, who is part of the Delimitation Committee, said the SC order is applicable to the entire nation, and the SEC will take appropriate action.

"We are also checking with legal experts whether the polls can be conducted with or without delimitation. As per the Constitution, polls have to be conducted once in five years within six months of additional time. Going by that, we are supposed to conduct the polls by now," he said.

Pointed out that there are certain pockets on the city's outskirts removed from Panchayat limits which need to be added to the bigger BBMP, he said the government will ensure that there will be no uncertainty over the inclusion of these areas either to panchayat or BBMP limits. The state government will take a decision and issue a notification accordingly, he added.

As the number of wards was to increase to 243 wards, the Palike was gearing up for a bigger BBMP Council by changing the seating arrangements in the hall. For this, Rs 10 crore was allocated. The new Council has to accommodate at least 300 members, including the proposed 243 councillors, 28 MLAs, Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha members along with the nominated councillors. However, the seating arrangement and the building is not ready. Tushar Girinath said they will make suitable arrangements for all these members at one place once polls are conducted.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
In spite of your best efforts and most carefully-laid plans, domestic affairs seem determined to follow their own independent course. Don't be distracted, though, as in the long run you're on the right track. Some sort of social or group enterprise could turn out to be most beneficial.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There's no escape from your deeply emotional nature. This is a day to accept that your instincts are correct and that logic and reason may in fact be unreliable guides to healthy living. In fact, I'd say it's time to stick to the straight and narrow!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Get your private affairs sorted out today, and don't let irritating side issues distract you from important matters. It's likely you'll be engaged in activities which are your sole concern, and nothing to do with other people, so don't let them meddle!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
A special personal plan is about to come to fruition, so set the pace yourself, and don't allow anyone else to rush you into doing something you suspect you'll live to regret. On the other hand, there's no reason why you should accept pointless and unnecessary delays.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
You have a public reputation to maintain, even though you pride yourself on your independence. Remember that, in the final analysis, some of your most treasured ambitions will only be attained if other people back you. Not only that, you should expect support in deeds as well as words.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
In general, this should be a very sociable period, even though you're all too likely to take on responsibilities that you'll later find too burdensome. Try to be more selective than usual. After all, if there is any time this year when you need to look after yourself, this is it.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You might have been the victim of some underhand dealings at work. In any event, there's someone around whose motives make you rather uneasy. Such fears can easily be dispelled if you make an effort to be more open yourself. After all, honesty breeds honesty.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Lose no time if important matters are brewing. It's absolutely necessary that you take great pains to persuade potential supporters that your plans will have beneficial results for everyone. Plus, if you're on the look-out for a new job, a social contact could open to the/a? door.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You really should pay more attention to your financial situation. Even if you've been concentrating full-time on business matters, you've almost certainly overlooked important details. But, then, perhaps this is a day when you can afford to take time off from trivia and contemplate the larger picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Events should move along quite smoothly today, your task being to tackle issues that you would normally ignore. You may receive discreet support from relatives and other people close to you. If you're uncertain about the outcome, you may want to slow down and wait until after the weekend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There's still an atmosphere of suspicion at work and you'll all too easily become embroiled in rumours and gossip. You know in your heart that it's much better for you to bring everything out into the open, and to make a start by asking partners how they feel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Among the many possibilities that are coming your way is a strong likelihood of long-distance travel. Ideally, there should be a long and pleasant voyage in the near future but it could be a journey of the spirit as much as of the body - but then you're always such a sensitive soul!

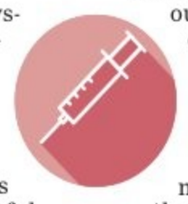
Combination vaccine a boon for children, parents

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A combination vaccination is a boon for children and parents, as it provides protection against multiple diseases, decreases side-effects and reduces pain, and helps reduce the problem of non-compliance with the immunisation schedule, said Dr Kishore Kumar, senior consultant neonatologist and founder-chairman of Cloud Nine group of hospitals.

Dr Kishore explained that children are exposed to innumerable number of germs, some of which can cause serious diseases.



A child's immune system would still be developing, and it cannot fight all deadly diseases.

According to the World Health Organisation, immunisation is one of the most successful public health interventions to prevent death from infections such as diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and tetanus in all age groups. The 6-in-1 combination vaccination protects children from six serious illnesses, including diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, haemophilus influenza type B, hepatitis B, and poliomyelitis.

According to the immunisation schedule of the Indian Academy of Pediatrics, children need to take the DTP-IPV-Hib-HepB vaccines at the age of six, ten and 14 weeks.

With the combination vaccination, children take only two injections -- the 6-in-1 vaccination and pneumococcal vaccination, and one oral vaccine (Rotavirus) on each of these occasions.

Without the combination shot, children would have to take many more injections, he said.

The percentage of children aged 12 to 23 months who are fully vaccinated has increased from 62.6 per cent, as per National Family Health Survey-4 (2015-16) to 84.1 per cent as per NFHS-5 (2019-21) in Karnataka, Dr Kishore said.

This shows there is a marked improvement in immunisation coverage in rural areas, but limited improvement in urban areas.

More needs to be done to make parents aware of the benefits of immunisation and availability of vaccines, to increase full immunisation coverage to 90 per cent and beyond, he added.

HC QUASHES FIR REGISTERED OVER ADOPTION

For an offence, there should be material that a person offered or received orphan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has said the First Information Report (FIR) cannot be registered under Section 80 and 81 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, for adopting a child without a valid process, unless the adopted child was deserted by biological or adoptive parents or guardians, or has been declared abandoned by the Child Welfare Committee after due inquiry.

Justice Hemant Chandangoudar passed the order, quashing an FIR registered by the Siddapura police against a 37-year-old woman from Malavatti in Uttara Kannada district.

The court said that to constitute an offence punishable under Section 80 of JJ Act, there should be material that a person has offered or receives any orphan, abandoned or surrendered child, for adoption. Section 2 of the Act specifies that an abandoned child is a child deserted by his biological or adoptive parents or guardians who has been declared abandoned by the committee.

In this case, the committee has not declared that the child was deserted by his biological or adoptive parents or guardians to hold that the child which is in custody of the petitioner is adopted. In the absence of any declaration by the committee, the registration of the FIR against the petitioner for offences under Section 80 of the Act is without substance, the court said.

On receiving information about the adoption of a female child without any valid process, the Child Development Officer at Siddapura filed a complaint against the petitioner, invoking Section 80 and 81 of Act. The petitioner's counsel argued the allegations in the FIR do not constitute commission of the said offences alleged against the petitioner and FIR registered against petitioner is without any substance.

Copper wire, oil stolen from a transformer inside Rail Wheel Factory

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

IN a shocking development inside the highly secure campus of the Rail Wheel Factory (RWF) at Yelahanka, items running into lakh of rupees have been stolen from a transformer installed there. The constructions division of the South Western Railway zone had been carrying out work for a substation at this spot, in the vicinity of the railway station here.

The discovery regarding the missing items was made on Monday, said a railway source. Estimates vary on the exact loss suffered by the Railways with sources pegging it anywhere between Rs 5 lakh and Rs 30 lakh.

According to the source, nearly 20,000 litres of oil placed inside a chamber to be used as a coolant in the transformer had been drained from it. "This must have been done in order to make the theft of copper easier," the source said. "A total of 1,400m of copper wire have been stolen from the transformer. Copper has good value in the market and so whoever is behind it, must have eyed it. The difficulty in transporting the oil and the lack of big resale value for it must have resulted in it being left behind," he added.

An official said the present market value for copper is Rs 800 per kg, while the specific oil used in transformers costs Rs 70 per litre. "The constructions division of SWR is setting up a sub-station for electrical supply to the main transmission line. This will supply power to run electric locos. SWR had taken this portion of land a few years ago from the RWF for this purpose," a senior railway official told TNIE.

The victim succumbed to injuries on Monday. Police have managed to arrest three accused, including the former lover.

The accused are Kiran, Arun and Rakesh. The victim has been identified as Samarth Nair, a native of Shivamogga. The victim had gone to Delhi for two months and had returned on April 26. He then fell in love with the woman also from Shivamogga. Before she fell in love with Samarth, the woman was allegedly in a relationship with Kiran. The woman and Kiran later broke up. Kiran did not like the fact that she had fallen in love with another man within a few days of their break-up.

On Saturday, the woman approached the Bommanahalli police and filed a complaint against her former lover for attacking the victim when he was at her house. The police registered a case of attempt to murder along with other IPC sections against Kiran and his two associates.

The main accused, who was in a relationship with the complainant, later broke up. The main accused was still possessive of his former lover and did not like her moving around with the victim. After getting to know that she was with the victim at her house in Bommanahalli, the main accused and two of his aides barged into her house and attacked the victim.

"The main accused, the victim and complainant are employed in private firms. The accused have also been booked for intending to outrage the modesty of the complainant while they attacked the victim," Srinath Mahadev Joshi, DCP, South East division, said.

Victim's condition 'stable'

MEANWHILE, the condition of the acid attack victim is said to be "stable", said sources. The biggest concern in acid attack and burn injury victims is the onset of infection. The hospital authorities are maintaining all levels of precaution to keep her in an extremely sterile environment, added the sources.

On April 28, Nagesh, a resident of Sanjivini Nagar, Hegganahalli in Bengaluru, had allegedly attacked the girl with acid when she was heading to work in Sunkadakatte on Magadi Road. He continued to pour acid on her even as she screamed for help and later fled the spot, the police had stated earlier. He has been at large since the attack. The police have released his photographs and elicited public help in nabbing him.

PERMISSION MANDATORY FOR USE OF LOUDSPEAKERS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government on Tuesday issued directions for implementation of the Supreme Court order on the use of loudspeakers in public places, and removing them if written permission is not taken from the designated authority.

The directions were issued amid a demand from pro-Hindu organisations for action against the unauthorised use of loudspeakers for azaan in mosques.

"All users of loudspeakers or public address systems must obtain written permission from the designated authority within 15 days. Those who don't obtain written permission should voluntarily remove (loudspeakers) or should be removed by the designated authority," stated directions issued by Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar.

The state government issued directions a day after Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai held a meeting with senior officers from the departments of Home and Law, Pollution Control Board secretary and Minority Welfare Department secretary. On Monday, members of pro-Hindu organisations protested against the use of loudspeakers for azaan by playing devotional songs at temples early in the morning.

The Chief Secretary, citing the Supreme Court orders of July 18 and October 28, 2005, said loudspeakers or public address systems should not be used, except after obtaining permission from the designated authority.

The Noise Pollution (Regulation and Control) Rules, 2000, under Rule (1), have laid down ambient air quality standards, and also define daytime as 6am to 10pm, and nighttime as 10pm to 6am. According to Rule 5(1), loudspeakers shall not be used, except after obtaining permission from the designated authority, and Rule 5 (2) of the NPRC bars use of loudspeakers or any sound-producing instruments at night except in closed premises, subject to other conditions. Committees be formed at different levels to decide on permission for use of loudspeakers. In police commissionerate areas, the committee will comprise the ACP, jurisdictional executive engineer of the city corporation, and representative of the State Pollution Control Board, and in other areas, Deputy SP, jurisdictional tahsildar and State Pollution Control Board representative.

K'taka is best investment hub, Bommai tells envoys

You can create your own space in Karnataka, was CM's hardsell

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi/ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday called upon ambassadors of countries across the globe to invest in Karnataka, as a prelude to Invest Karnataka - Global Investors' Meet 2022, to be held in November. Bommai pitched Karnataka as a state which has adopted technology with ease and is a pioneer in many sectors, and Bengaluru as the Silicon Valley.

"You can create your own space in Karnataka, and there are worlds within worlds," was Bommai's hardsell line, as he showcased Karnataka, especially Bengaluru, as the investment destinations of India. "We believe in growing together, sitting here you can create wealth in your own countries," he said.

Inviting them to participate in GIM 2022, Bommai said Karnataka has developed scientifically, with a conducive environment for the growth of all sectors, from aerospace to biotechnology, pharma and IT. It is the first state to produce machine tools, has built satellites at ISRO, and now has labs to research Artificial Intelligence. There are 400 research centres in the state, of which 180 match world standards, he added.

Listing efficiency and excellence as the core of economic activity in Karnataka, he also sought to highlight the state's rich heritage, strong foundation, values, honesty and heritage, besides its plus points of natural resources and climate. A strong agriculture sector and service zone has been created for the development of the farmer, he told the delegates, adding that investing in Karnataka would be mutually beneficial.

Bommai govt most corrupt, says DKS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

KPCC president DK Shivakumar called Karnataka the most corrupt State in the country in the wake of the 40 per cent commission allegations besides scam in PSI recruitment.

Addressing a Janadhwani protest rally organised by KPCC on Tuesday, Shivakumar launched a tirade against the BJP leaders and said that they should come out with a list detailing the amount to be paid for various posts from Circle Inspectors to DSP similar to the breakfast menu in restaurants.

During his tenure as Energy Minister, he said that for 30,000 posts people were recruited, and "if anybody alleged that they have paid even Rs 10 for recruitment, I would retire from politics."

Both Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Home Minister Araga Jnanendra defended former RDPR Minister KS Eshwarappa and succeeded in registering a suicide case while the Congress demanded a case under the Prevention of Corruption Act, he said.

Shivakumar said the three surveys he conducted in Shivamogga district showed that the Congress would win in all the seven assembly seats.

Regarding the Bagair Hukum issue, he said that Congress will convene a meeting at Kagodu village of Sagar taluk on August 9 and protect the interest of the cultivators. Earlier, MLA B K Sangameshwar speaking on the occasion called Higher Education Minister Dr Ashwath Narayan a "thief".

Cong's 'Na Nayaki' drive to woo women

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@ Bengaluru

AFTER the 'Ladki Hoon, Lad Sakthi Hoon' campaign by the Congress to woo women voters during the Uttar Pradesh assembly polls, the Karnataka Congress is taking a cue and is set to launch 'Na Nayaki' (I am a Leader) in the last week of May. Priyanka Gandhi Vadra is expected to take part in one of the outreach programmes.

In December 2021, the campaign in Uttar Pradesh was led by Priyanka Gandhi. In Karnataka, transgender activist Akkai Padmashali, who is associated with the Karnataka Congress, has been made state convener for the campaign 'Na Nayaki', to reach out to women. The campaign will target the 3 crore-plus female population in Karnataka, which forms a big chunk of voters and can play a major role in the assembly elections.

Akkai told TNIE, "Through this campaign, we are making an attempt to reach women from all sectors, right from the panchayat level -- farmer leaders, Dalit leaders, panchayat members, religious leaders, Asha workers and many more. We will organise the campaign in each constituency, we will interact with women from these regions them learn what they need, their demands and challenges. This is an attempt to get their voice in our manifesto." Akkai said.

The campaign will be held at two to four places at a time, where local MLAs, MLCs and other leaders will take part. "We are hoping to complete this exercise in the next four months. We will reach out to women in all 224 assembly seats," she said. The campaign will be launched by KPCC President DK Shivakumar in the third week of May, and Priyanka Gandhi is expected to take part in one of these campaigns.

Amid defections, Maritibbe Gowda may join Cong

BENGALURU: Ahead of the Assembly elections next year, leaders have started party-hopping with a few Congress and JDS leaders defecting to the BJP. Some of the other leaders are also knocking the doors of the Congress. JDS MLC Maritibbe Gowda is likely to join Congress, while former Minister and independent MLA Nagesh met Leader of Opposition Siddaramiah. Gowda had hinted of quitting JDS. "I am unhappy with the JDS party leaders decision, and therefore, I am appealing people not to vote for JDS. I will not support JDS candidate at any cost," he had told reporters in Mandya on Monday. Sources close to him said he is likely to join Congress. His exit will deal a heavy blow to JDS as Mandya is one of the few districts which is party's bastion. Nagesh who supported HD Kumaraswamy led JDS-Congress government was also a minister during his tenure. He later served as a minister in Yediyurappa's regime.

MB Patil contradicts DKS, denies meeting Ashwath

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WHILE Congress president D K Shivakumar on Tuesday alleged that state Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan had met Congress MLA and campaign committee chief M B Patil, seeking 'protection' against raising issues involving him on a public platform. However, both Patil and Ashwath Narayan rubbished the charge, saying there was no truth in it.

It may be recalled that Shivakumar had stated that, "Ashwath Narayan met M B Patil seeking protection that the Congress should not do anything against him. But they said it was a private meeting, since he (Patil) runs educational institutions. Patil said he went there (to meet Narayan) for advice," Shivakumar said.

Patil, however, brushed aside the charge made by his party's state chief. "I did not meet Ashwath Narayan in the recent past. There is no question of him coming to my house," Patil said. Meanwhile, CM asked about Narayan meeting MB Patil, said he has no knowledge about any such meeting. "There is no need to give too much importance," he said.

BJP will work as a team to win 150 seats: Kateel

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Udupi

BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel said that BJP will win 150 seats in the upcoming Assembly election in state.

Speaking during a state office bearers' meeting held in Udupi on Tuesday, Kateel said that party will work as a team under the leadership of Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and former CM BS Yediyurappa.

The previous Congress governments were riddled with corruption and nepotism, and did not have the nation's interest in mind, he said.

The BJP government in the state took decisive steps whenever divisive powers tried to disturb peace, he said, adding, "Be it hijab, Azaan or halal issues, the state government has sent a clear message to those disrupting peace. BJP-led state government made sure that it governs the state based on the constitutional values."

Kateel also blamed former CM Siddaramaiah for the recent clashes in Hubballi and Shivamogga, saying it was during Siddaramaiah's regime in the state that 2,000 KFD workers were released from the jail and those workers created trouble in the state recently.

Stating that organisational works have gained pace after the state executive committee meeting of BJP in Hosapete last month, Kateel said as the party will chalk out strategies to win the next elections as per the vision of BJP president JP Nadda and BJP national general secretary B L Santhosh.

DISCIPLINARY PANEL TO DECIDE ON ACTION AGAINST YATNAL : BJP STATE PRESIDENT

On the sidelines of the convention of SC, ST of Udupi Assembly, he said that talks are underway with leaders from other parties who are willing to follow BJP's ideology and join the party. About Azaan versus Bhajan row, Kateel said that the government will work on implementing the Supreme Court's guidelines, and added that the former CM Siddaramaiah, will be jailed in the Arkavathi scam.

Officials fail to restore GSTIN, B'luru bizman suffers

ENS @Bengaluru

A CITY-based businessman, Girish L, Director, Add Engineering Components India Pvt Ltd (AECIPL), has been left in the lurch after the state GST department authorities told him that they are unable to unblock his GSTIN, cancelled due to a delay in payment. The officials said they do not know how to unblock it, and Girish is now unable to conduct any business or buy supplies without generating the E-Way Bill number.

Struggles of AECIPL began in 2021 when Girish could not pay GST due to Covid, and later he had to shut his company temporarily. The department, citing the delay in payment of GST, suspended his 15-digit GSTIN that prevented him from conducting any transaction. The company manufactures and supplies cutting-edge tools and defence components. The director had received two show-cause notices from the department. He made a payment of ₹17.5 lakh towards GST along with ₹2 lakh fines in December 2021, while the due date was March 2021. Though as per rule, GSTIN should have been restored, it has not been done. Despite his requests, the anomaly could not be corrected and he could not file the GST returns from December 21 to February 2022. He approached the appellate tribunal seeking to revoke the cancellation of registration. On March 31, 2022, the tribunal ordered the authorities to restore the GSTIN.

But the department has not cancelled de-registration proceedings.

The flight, however, landed safely at the Indira Gandhi International Airport in the National Capital.

According to an Airports Authority of India (AAI) official, the Boeing 737-8 MAX aircraft carried 187 people. "The aircraft suffered a bird hit at Belagavi airport while flying to Delhi on May 9," the official added.

After landing safely at the Indira Gandhi International Airport in Delhi, the flight was supposed to fly immediately to Jharsuguda in Odisha. However as the plane faced technical glitches, the flight was delayed by a few hours.

The flight to Jharsuguda, which was scheduled to take off at 11.55 am, departed at 2 pm and was operated by another aircraft.

"Due to the bird-hit, one of the engine blades is damaged and technicians are working on it," sources said.

Meanwhile, speaking to The New Indian Express, Rajesh Maurya, Director, Airport, Belagavi, said that the pilot of the aircraft was the first to know about the bird hit and he informed the airport authorities immediately.

"Most of the bird hits are harmless... but we cannot rule out the danger it poses to an aircraft, the official said.

ASPIRATIONAL INDIA CREATING SPACE FOR OUTSIDERS

The established political order is coming increasingly under attack from outsiders. Traditional political parties with entrenched leadership, regional satraps and scions of dynasties have been portrayed as evil and become the target of new entrants into politics. A new set of people from humble origins with no political background but having a history of public service and professional excellence seem to be catching the common man's fancy more than ever before. Arvind Kejriwal was the first such leader in recent times who stormed into power in Delhi by defeating both the Congress and the BJP, the two parties that had dominated politics there since Independence. He emerged from the anti-corruption Anna Hazare movement and promised to clean up the country's politics. The nation lapped him up.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi too positioned himself as an outsider, a chaiwala who did not come from money, political family or any privileged class. Entering the national scene soon after the Anna Hazare movement, Modi's 'na khaunga, na khane doonga' slogan resonated across the country and he won by a landslide. Modi is seen as a common man who has no family and therefore no desire to accumulate wealth.

The latest one to ride this wave against the established political order is Prashant Kishor. The political strategist, who is credited with helping many parties win elections, seems to have decided to take the plunge himself. To test the political waters, he has announced that he would undertake a 3,000-kilometre padayatra starting from Gandhi ashram in Champaran and go across Bihar. The state has been one of the most backward in India and appears ripe for the launch of politics of development. Bihar was the epicentre of a movement under Jayaprakash Narayan. Whether Kishor succeeds in building a JP-like movement in the state remains to be seen. But one thing that weighs in his favour is the apparent mood of the people of India. There is a clear yearning for clean leaders who would make a difference in the lives of the people. Will another political outsider move to the centre stage?

POLITICS OF EVICTION, A LESSON FROM TN

The Supreme Court has refused to restrain the Tamil Nadu government from continuing with its eviction drive along the Buckingham Canal in Chennai. The decision comes a day after a protestor set himself ablaze to stop the eviction of 259 residents, and more than 15 years of legal battle. The apex court's stand and the unfortunate death have raised two issues. Courts are not going to turn a blind eye to encroachments on government land, particularly waterbodies, and will ask the states to act tough. Incidentally, Tamil Nadu's eviction drive came after a contempt petition filed in the SC. Second, governments cannot create bare-bones structures on no-man's land that are unfit for settlement, and ask people to move to these locations without expecting stiff resistance.

One of the primary complaints of the residents has been that they were uprooted from a place that was their home for decades to concrete jungles far away from their daily livelihood. Some of the residents who were allotted houses in distant Perumbakkam said they were given flats on the seventh floor in buildings that do not have running water, power connections or lifts. Chief Minister MK Stalin has now promised to resettle all those evicted from the locality in TNUHDB houses being built in nearby Mandaveli and Mylapore. A new resettlement policy that covers all aspects of people's welfare has also been promised by the chief minister.

While removing encroachments to save water bodies is vital, governments cannot absolve themselves of the responsibility of creating liveable conditions for people that address questions of safety, security, health and livelihood. TN's policy that's on the anvil must also address the issue of funding for creating and sustaining community resources such as running water, proper power, lift, schools and health services to ensure that people have an incentive to move to these places. A sustained financial support system through corporate social responsibility initiatives or dedicated funding through taxes or cess can ensure the upkeep of these facilities and a humane approach towards evictions.

Latest numbers from the National Family Health Survey reveal that the spectre of population explosion need no longer haunt India

FROM POPULATION CONTROL TO STABILISATION

DR K SRINATH REDDY

Cardiologist, epidemiologist and President, Public Health Foundation of India (PHFI)

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Recently released data from National Family Health Survey's fifth round (NFHS-5) reveal that India's Total Fertility Rate (TFR) has decreased to 2.0 from 2.2 in the previous round. TFR is the number of children born to a heterosexual couple during their reproductive life. Given that 2.1 is the figure at which the population is maintained at a stable level, taking into account the likelihood of some child deaths, the latest number suggests that the spectre of population explosion need no longer haunt India. However, five states still have a high TFR: Bihar (2.98); Meghalaya (2.91); Uttar Pradesh (2.35); Jharkhand (2.26) and Manipur (2.17). They too need to attain a TFR of 2.1 or lower.

The nomenclature of population-size limiting programmes has changed over the years, from population control to population stabilisation and from family planning to family welfare. These changes denote awareness that 'development is the best contraceptive'. Population stabilisation signals a non-coercive approach than population control, while family welfare indicates that the goal is to increase health, wellbeing and social stability of well-planned small families.

Economic growth and equitable social development incentivise adoption of a small family norm. In particular, education of women and their employment in the workforce have a profound impact on couples choosing to have a small number of children. This has been borne out the world over and is now being validated in India too. The benefits of economic growth must not only be reflected in aggregate national indicators, but must also be well distributed across all sections of the population.

Along with economic growth, improvement in health and social services too reduce TFR. Poor families wish to have more children who will become working hands to shore up the family income, so that they can survive at a subsistence level. As the country's economic growth increases opportunities for gainful employment, couples transitioning from poverty will limit the number of children to preserve the gains. When improved access to better healthcare and good nutrition improve child survival, there is no compulsion to produce many children to compensate for possible child deaths and seek security for support in old age.

Access to reproductive services is important. These include not only sterilisation procedures, which were aggressively implemented by earlier family planning drives, but also modern methods of contraception that can be used for spacing between child births. It is essential that women have easy access to such methods and autonomy of decision-making for their use. Female sterilisation still remains the most frequently used method of contraception, indicating that males are still placing the onus of surgical sterilisation on their female partners.

While 99% of married men and women aged between 15–49 years were aware of at least one method of birth control, use of modern contraceptive methods for family planning was reported by only 56.4%. There was a socioeconomic gradient in access to family planning methods. NFHS-5 shows that 'unmet needs for family planning methods' were reported by 11.4% in the lowest wealth quintile versus 8.6% in the highest wealth quintile.

> The nomenclature of population-size limiting programmes has changed over the years indicating a non-coercive approach. This is also due to the awareness that development is the best contraceptive

Modern contraceptive methods were used by 58.7% of women in the highest wealth quintile and 50.7% in the lowest. Use of such methods was 66.3% among women who were employed, in contrast to 53.4% in women who were not. Women's education levels matter, not only for gaining employment but also for awareness, autonomy and ability to negotiate choices with a partner.

While a young population provides a demographic dividend for economic growth, it is also essential that children be healthy and well-nourished. Loving parental attention and intellectually nurturing stimulation are essential for early child development. Birth spacing and a small family norm enable these. This makes awareness of, and access to, family planning methods essential. Even as the goal of population stabilisation is being achieved, it is imperative that we invest in fostering the health and wellbeing of all our people, throughout their life course. Decline in fertility frees up funds for investment in development of our human resources.

Population stabilisation is also needed for protecting the environment. A rapidly growing global population will quickly consume planetary resources, aggravating water and food insecurity. It will lead to greater energy utilisation, more extensive deforestation and even worse pollution than plagues the planet now. It will also deplete biodiversity and endanger other life forms with whom we share an interdependent existence. Even if science and technology have enabled humanity to escape the Malthusian trap, breaching planetary boundaries will be at our peril.

In his recent book The Journey Of Humanity, economist Oded Galor argues that climate policy should not be restricted to cutting carbon but should also involve "pushing hard for gender equality, access to education and the availability of contraceptives, to drive forward the decline in fertility". India will do well to heed that advice.

TREES FROM THE PAST IN A TAMIL NADU TEMPLE TOWN

MADHUSUDHANAN KALAICHELVAN

Architect and conservationist interested in Indian heritage and culture

Tirukalukundram, a popular weekend temple trip from Chennai, has deep religious significance and is referred to in sacred literature. In addition to the scenic views and spectacular architecture, the town has historical importance as well. The town gets its name from the well-recorded daily visit by a pair of eagles around noon time. The temple priests would feed the eagles, which in turn would circumambulate the hill temple and fly down south. This unique event was happening till even the early 90s. A conch is discovered once in 12 years from the sacred tank called Sangu Teertham, and is included in the temple rituals after documentation. A grand complex with tall gopurams and spacious corridors, the temple at the foothills is dedicated to Siva as Sri Bakthavathsalar and Devi as Sri Tirupurasundhari. The skyline of the town is dominated by the hill, the top of which is reached by climbing 550 steps, with the temple on top acting as its ornamental crown. Siva in this temple is called Vedhagireeshwarar and his consort is Chokka Nayaki.

Situated on the ancient highway connecting Mamallapuram and Kanchipuram, the commercial and administrative capitals of the Pallavas respectively, the temple saw extensive growth under them. The inner and the outer walls of the sanctum sanctorum of the hill temple have grand panels from Pallava times, including the depictions of Siva as Somaskandha. During the renovation of this shrine under the Cholas, the architects have done a commendable job of retaining them even as the shrine was extended. There is also a cave temple excavated on the face of a boulder on your way up the hill. Attributed to Mahendravarma Pallava, this cave is protected by the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI).

A unique inscription in the temple at the foothills documents the magnanimity of the kings. A certain Puttan, son of Gunavan from Andur village, requested Rajakesari Varman of the imperial Chola dynasty (must be Aditya I, 9th century CE) to help protect the donation of a piece of land. As a part of his request, he quoted an important piece of glorious history. He explained how this land donation made during the time of Skandasishya (early Pallava king, 4th century) was acknowledged by his successor Narasimha Varma (Pallava king, 7th century CE), who conquered the Chalukya capital city of Vatapi or Badami. This stands as proof of the importance that these kings gave to records. They ensured that donations made to the temple survived and served their purpose for at least half a millennium. Requests from the common public have been acknowledged along with the dignity of traditions and temple properties.

Several inscriptions from the times of the imperial Cholas identify the town as a part of Jayamkonda Chola Mandalam of Kalathur Kottam. A lengthy inscription covers the documentation of a land survey conducted during the reign of Kulothunga III. The inscription that starts with the traditional prashasti, listing the valour and victory of the said king, identifies this incident to have happened in his 23rd regnal year (1201 CE). There seems to have occurred a confusion regarding the boundaries of the town and hence representatives, officials, priests, merchants and accountants all gathered at the shrine of Sri Rajendra Chozha Vinnagaram. The names of all the officials have been listed along with their designation. The beauty of the inscription is in using the natural elements from the landscape to denote the boundary. A variety of native trees, rocks and boulders, anthills, the sacred hill, pond and tank have all been used to mark the boundary. For example, an age-old tandri tree (Terminalia bellerica) has been marked as the key identity element. The inscription says, "....mark the tandri tree to the south of the village, to its left move towards east and south east till you reach the boulder on which sacrifices are made (bali idum paarai), mark that as your next reference point. Now turn right and move towards north-north east till you reach an aayila tree (Bassia longifolia), turn left and..." The inscription goes on to come a complete circle around the town pointing to indigenous trees like vila (wood apple), aal (banyan), nochi (vitex) and puli (tamarind). Needless to say, the direction marking brings you to the tandri tree where you started. Apparently this survey was undertaken to solve some disputes that arose then and establish the boundaries as described in the copper plate issued during the reign of Rajendra Chola.

The king, queen and the officials perhaps thought these trees would stand the test of time but didn't probably guess the greed of the 20th century man. The author wishes that these indigenous trees are planted and taken care of in the same directions as discussed in the inscription. That would be a humble homage to the memory of Rajendra Chola, Vanavan Madevi and Kulothunga III.

Into a debt trap

This is with reference to Eldest Rajapaksa goes, one left (May 10). Mahinda Rajapaksa resigned as the Sri Lankan prime minister amidst unprecedented economic turmoil. His popularity rose after he played a key role in eliminating the huge threat posed by the LTTE and this paved the way for dynastic rule. The allegation against the family is that their vanity projects pushed the nation into a debt trap.

Jayashree Thampi, T'puram

Hope sanity prevails

The ongoing protests in Sri Lanka seem to have taken a dangerous turn. Houses of top politicians, particularly from the Rajapaksa family, are torched by protestors. One is reminded of Lanka Dahana in the Ramayana. Let us hope that sanity now prevails and peace returns at the earliest. The current government and President should step down immediately before public anger further boils over. Sri Lanka should go for fresh elections immediately and people should elect a government they believe can deliver and bail them out of the current crisis.

K Ramachandran, Chennai

Unwarranted tussle

This is with reference to the editorial Addressing Telangana's paddy problem (May 9). The Central government has been extremely proactive and highly consistent in its stand on the paddy issue in the state. Considering the decreasing demand for parboiled rice in various parts of the country, the Food Corporation of India had informed the state of non-acceptance of such paddy in the future. However, the reality has been twisted for petty political gains and an unwarranted tussle has been built up. It's time the governments realise that there should be no compromise when it comes to safeguarding the interests of the farmers. Their welfare should be prioritised above all other considerations.

Satish Reddy Kanaganti, Nalgonda

Sedition U-turn welcome

Very few sedition cases have ended in conviction. The law is mostly misused to silence and intimidate the critics of the ruling dispensation, either in the states or the Centre. Criticised by the courts, the Centre has now bought time to examine the contentious law. The U-turn is welcome. It should scrap the law to protect freedom of expression.

Chennai's missing lakes

This is with reference to Giving Chennai's eris a new lease of life (May 7). The names of some of the main roads in Chennai such as Spur Tank road and Tank Bund road, apart from the Lake View roads, to mention a few, commemorate waterbodies that existed in Chennai not too long ago. There is an urgent need to at least revive the existing eris in Chennai as stressed in the article.

N Rama Rao, Chennai

Setting an example

Restrictions on use of loudspeakers in mosques should apply to temples too (Many vying to install bhopus; let us focus on development, May 10). Yogi Adityanath set the right example by getting the loudspeakers of Gorakhnath temple removed first. There should be no double standards.

WITH the whole country facing a power crisis in the wake of coal shortage, the Union Environment Ministry has decided to relax the mandatory compliance norm for coal mining expansion projects.

The ministry has decided to exempt existing coal mining projects seeking approval for up to 50 per cent expansion from going through the process of mandatory public hearings and environmental impact assessment (EIA) study. The concession has been provided as a special case for six months following an alarm raised by the Coal Ministry citing "huge pressure on domestic coal supply in the country". The ministry's SOS sought urgent measures "for enhancement of production of coal without any further delay".

In an office memorandum dated May 7, the Environment Ministry noted that it had received a request from the Ministry of Coal that there was huge pressure on domestic coal supply and that existing coal blocks should be allowed expansion of production capacity keeping in view the available reserves and compliance with the conditions of the previous Environment Clearance (EC).

Several states are facing acute power crisis due to coal shortage amid an increase in power demand due to the intense heat wave. The weather office has predicted another round of heat wave across several states this week.

The Coal Ministry on Tuesday said that coal production in the country had increased by 29 per cent to 66.58 million tonnes in April compared to the same month in 2021.

According to the Environment Ministry, the Coal Ministry has further requested for relaxing the requirement of public consultation and preparation of Environment Impact Assessment/Environment Management Plan report for expansion from 40 to 50 per cent, for enhancement of production of coal without any further delay.

"The matter has been examined by the ministry. Considering the exigency that has arisen, it has been decided, as a special dispensation, that those coal mining projects which have been granted an expansion of Environment Clearance (EC) up to 40 per cent of original EC capacity as per provisions of April 11 order, shall be granted EC to increase their production capacity to 50 per cent of original EC capacity, within the same mine lease area without requiring revised EIA/EMP report for additional capacity and public consultation," the Environment Ministry noted.

The Ministry had on April 11 granted exemption from public consultation and EIA to coal mining projects for expansion up to 40 per cent within the existing premises/mine lease area, without additional land acquisition. s

8 charged with selling Pak MBBS seats in J&K

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A special court in Srinagar on Tuesday framed charges against senior Hurriyat leader Mohammad Akbar Bhat alias Zafar Bhat and seven others for selling Pakistani MBBS seats in Jammu and Kashmir.

Special Judge Manjeet Singh Manhas of NIA court framed charges against Zaffar Bhat, chairman of J&K Salvation Movement, and seven other residents of Kashmir under UAPA and IPC Section 420.

The FIR against the accused was registered on July 27, 2020, for allegedly being hand-in-glove with some educational consultancies for arranging admission of J&K residents in MBBS and other professional courses in various colleges and universities in Pakistan.

The police found during investigation that a huge amount of money was received from the parents of the students in lieu of such admissions and the money earned was allegedly used in supporting militancy in J&K. It was on the recommendations of Hurriyat leaders that the authorities in Pakistan provided admission in professional colleges there to the next of kin of slain militants as an incentive to boost morale and keep the pot of militancy boiling in the Valley, the police said.

The money raised through selling of seats was ploughed into militancy and to create law and other problems, disturb peace, damage public property, strike terror among the masses and create threat to the sovereignty of India. The money raised was also distributed among the families of families of active militants to boost their morale and carry forward anti national/subversive activities.

The central government recently said that professional degrees, including MBBS, obtained from Pakistan will not be recognised in India.

Integrated battle groups in final stage, says Army Chief

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Indian Army is in advanced stages of putting together Integrated Battle Groups (IBGs) by reconfiguring its combat formations. The IBGs add punch to the ground forces by combining the strengths of each formation.

Chief of Army Staff (COAS) Gen Manoj Pande said on Monday that IBGs were getting "collated." "Consultations with all stakeholders are more or less formalized and are now in the process of final compilation. Once this happens, we will see how we can take this forward and apply to perhaps other formations of the Army," the Army Chief told TNIE.

The process has been put to test along two most active borders such as with Pakistan and China. "We have identified a holding formation on the western front and a strike formation in the eastern or northern borders for the IBGisation to commence," said Gen Pande.

This whole exercise is associated with theaterization -- integrating all the forces into theatres. Once IBGs are rolled out, these will be comparatively smaller formations but will be able to execute their operations swiftly. They will add to the options of the theatre commanders.

The IBGs will be bigger than a brigade (3,000-3,500) but smaller than a division (10,000-12,000). In the first go, of the two IBGs planned, one is coming up under the 9 Corps mandated to operate on the western borders with Pakistan. The other one is being raised under the 17 Corps raised as the sole strike corps to operate along the northern borders with China.

"The purpose of restructuring our existing formations was to have forces which are lean, agile and tailor-made that would afford the commanders the flexibility and more options for their deployment," The Chief of Army Staff said.

GENERAL PANDE CONFERRED WITH PVSM

NEW DELHI: President Ram Nath Kovind conferred 13 Shaurya Chakras, which included six posthumous medals, to the armed forces personnel on Tuesday for their conspicuous courage displayed during operations. Army chief General Manoj Pande was conferred with the Param Vishisht Seva Medal (PVSM) for his distinguished service of exceptional order at a defence investiture ceremony at Rashtrapati Bhavan. A Ministry of Defence statement said the gallantry awards were given to the personnel "for displaying conspicuous gallantry, indomitable courage and extreme devotion to duty". ENS

No OBC quota for panchayat, local body polls: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi/Bhopal

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday directed the Madhya Pradesh State Election Commission (SEC) to notify local elections in the state within two weeks without the Other Backward Classes (OBC) quota.

While submitting a report of State Backward Caste Welfare Commission, the MP government had argued before the apex court that 35 per cent reservation be given to OBCs in the three-tier panchayat and urban local body polls.

There can be no OBC reservation until the triple test exercise mentioned in a 2010 Constitution bench verdict is completed properly, the bench of Justices AM Khanwilkar, AS Oka, and CT Ravikumar said.

"We direct the SEC by way of interim order to issue election programme without any further delay on the basis of the wards as per the delimitation done in the concerned local bodies when the elections had become due consequent to expiry of five-year term of the outgoing elected body or before coming into force of the impugned Amendment Act(s)," it said.

Elections to over 23,200 local bodies have not been held in MP since 2019-2020.

The conduct of elections for installing a newly elected body to take over from the outgoing elected representative is explicitly provided for by the Constitution, the SC said after hearing petitions challenging the validity of provisions of the Madhya Pradesh Municipal Act, the Madhya Pradesh Panchayat Raj Avam Gram Swaraj Adhiniyam, and Section 29 of the Madhya Pradesh Municipalities Act as being arbitrary and usurping the powers and independence of the SEC.

The matter will now be heard on July 12.

In Bhopal, CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan said it would first go through the details of the order. "We'll then file review petition, praying the court to allow holding the local bodies (rural and urban) polls with OBC reservation," Chouhan said.

OBC is the biggest chunk of voters in Madhya Pradesh with the BJP's three CMs — Uma Bharti, Babulal Gaur and Chouhan — coming from this segment.

The maximum percentage of OBC voters are housed in Gwalior-Chambal, Bundelkhand, Vindhya and Central MP regions. Around 100 out of the 230 seats in MP Assembly have significant OBC voter presence.

SC IRKED AT GOVT CHANGING STANCE ON 'MINORITIES'

The Supreme Court on Tuesday expressed displeasure at the Centre changing its stand on the issue of identification of minorities, including Hindus, at the state level, and asked it to consult states on this within three months. "A fresh affidavit has been filed now by the Ministry of Minority Affairs which seems to back out what was said in the earlier affidavit, something we do not appreciate. It is now sought to be stated that the question sought to be adjudicated has far reaching ramifications throughout the country," said a bench headed by Justice Sanjay Kishan Kaul. The Centre on Monday told the Supreme Court that the power to notify minorities was vested with the Union government and any decision in this regard would be taken after discussions with states and other stakeholders.

LEGAL DIGEST

Friday hearing on NEET-PG postponement

The Supreme Court on Tuesday agreed to hear on May 13 a plea of doctors seeking postponement of the NEET-PG 2022 which is scheduled to be held on May 21 on the ground that it will clash with the ongoing counselling for NEET-PG 2021. A bench of Justices DY Chandrachud and PS Narasimha said it will hear the matter which is already listed for hearing on Friday after senior advocate Rakesh Khanna mentioned for urgent listing of the petition. The bench asked Khanna whether the petitioners want postponement of the examination to which he replied in affirmative.

SC refuses to quash marital rape case trial in K'taka HC

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Tuesday issued a notice in a plea filed by a husband challenging a Karnataka High Court that had refused to quash the trial in an alleged marital rape case against him by the wife. The top court, however, refused to stay the trial in the case. The matter would be heard in July. Senior advocate Indira Jaising, appearing for the wife on caveat while opposing the stay, submitted that the trial had been stayed for over five years and that the woman had been waiting indefinitely for the beginning of the trial. In the case, Justice M Nagaprasanna of the Karnataka High court had held that "in the peculiar facts and circumstances" of the case, when the husband "rapes" a wife, he cannot claim the protection of exception enumerated under Section 375 of the Indian Penal Code (IPC), since the exemption is not "absolute". Senior advocate Siddharth Dave, appearing for the petitioner-husband, submitted that the trial is starting from May 29. The high court had noted that it was dealing with peculiar facts of the case and not on the constitutionality of the provision. "All human beings under the Constitution are to be treated equal, be it a man, be it a woman and others. Any thought of inequality, in any provision of law, would fail the test of Article 14 of the Constitution... It is for the lawmakers to ponder over the existence of such inequalities in law..." The high court had said in its order.

Manufacturers penalised for failing to meet commitment

SHAHID FARIDI @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Defence has imposed penalties on foreign defence companies that failed to honour their offset commitments. The penalised companies are: Rosoboronexport of Russia for a $1.34 billion contract signed in 2008 for the supply of 80 Mi-17V5 helicopters; Israel Aerospace Industries for a $700 million contract signed in 2009 & 2011 for the supply of Herop and Heron drones; Lockheed Martin of US for $962 million contract signed in 2009 for the supply of six C-130J transport aircraft; Textron Inc of US for $257.70 million contract signed in 2010 for the supply of 512 CBU-105 sensor fused weapons; Thales & Dassault Aviation of France for $1470 million contract signed in 2011 for the upgrade of 52 Mirage-2000H fighters; MBDA of France for $958 million contract signed in 2012 for the supply of MICA missiles; Pilatus Aircraft of Switzerland for $700 million contract signed in 2012 for the supply of 75 PC-7 turbo trainers; Fincantieri SpA of Italy for $160 million contract signed in 2008 contract for the supply of two fleet tanker ships, etc.

The offset policy was introduced in 2005 for every defence purchase of over ₹300 crore. In 2016, it changed the policy and made the offset clause applicable on contracts of over ₹2,000 crore. In 2020, it exempted all government-to-government contracts from offset obligations.

Pilots, cabin crew found drunk grounded by DGCA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has taken action against nine pilots and 32 cabin-crew who failed pre-flight alcohol tests between January 1 and April 30 this year.

Of them, two pilots and two cabin-crew members have been suspended for a period of three years for being positive for the second time, the aviation regulators said in a statement on Tuesday. The remaining seven pilots and 30 cabin-crew members were suspended for three months as they tested breathalyser positive for the first time, it added.

According to the DGCA, four pilots and 10 cabin-crew members of IndiGo, one pilot and five cabin-crew members of Go First, one pilot and six cabin-crew members of SpiceJet, one pilot of Air India Express and four cabin-crew members of AirAsia India failed the pre-flight alcohol tests in the said period.

One pilot and two cabin-crew members of Vistara, one pilot of Alliance Air and five cabin-crew members of Air India also failed the test.

The DGCA had stated last month that airlines must ensure that 50 per cent of their cockpit and cabin-crew members are subjected to pre-flight alcohol tests on a daily basis.

Arunachal village pins hope on road to end isolation

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT
@ Miao (Arunachal Pradesh)

THE Yobin or Lisu tribe, living in isolation for ages on the fringes of the remote Namdapha National Park in Arunachal Pradesh, has pinned its hope on a road link to connect with the mainstream.

Last week, when over 30 SUVs meandered through the dense forest to reach a sleepy Yobin village Nibodi, the entire population of about 500 residents lined up to welcome the motorists, who were the first one to ever reach this village.

Eagerly awaiting the opening of the entire stretch of 157 km long Miao to Vijaynagar road link, which will connect the easternmost and one of the remotest areas of this Northeastern state as the road means schools, healthcare, and a better life for the Yobin people.

The motorists, who were welcomed with open arms, were part of the 12-day Trans Arunachal Drive, which will traverse through 2,500 km from Namsai in the east Arunachal to Tawang in the west.

According to Michael Robin, one of the villagers, the Indian army discovered the tribe during a military expedition in 1961. Living in a no-man's land, the tribe helped the joint teams of India and Myanmar conduct a boundary survey and demarcate the international border.

Thanks to the section of the road touching Nibodi, the villagers hope for the revival of their fortunes.

Dependent on selling cardamom, which they irrigate and other agricultural produce, the villagers earlier had to trek through the jungle, sometimes for a week, to sell the crop in the city. The journey will be completed in a day, with the road link.

Excitement was writ large on 14-year-old Chalisa Yobin's face as she presented, along with other girls, a folk dance to welcome the 50-odd visitors. Dressed in her traditional red and blue attire with a beautiful headgear, Chalisa said she is among the few girls who go to school.

Border gadgets worth ₹86 cr 'sinks' in Brahmaputra

Worse, an internal audit exercise last year by a Guwahati-based Inspector General of BSF had described BOLD-QIT as a 'failed project'

CHANDAN NANDY @New Delhi

ELECTRONIC and digital equipment procured from the open market for ₹86 crore a few years ago as part of the Union Home Ministry's Comprehensive Integrated Border Management System (CIBMS) remain unused or have become junk, leaving a huge 61-km 'security hole' in the riverine stretch of the India-Bangladesh border in Assam.

The project to secure this riverine stretch on the Brahmaputra to prevent cross-border crime, illegal immigration from Bangladesh and cattle smuggling in Dhubri district of Assam was conceived in 2017 and named BOLD-QIT or Border Electronically Dominated QRT Interception Technique.

In 2018, Border Security Force's information and technology wing began executing the BOLD-QIT project and completed it in record time with technical support from various manufacturers and suppliers. On March 5, 2019, the then home minister Rajnath Singh inaugurated the project with a lot of fanfare.

However, documents in the possession of this newspaper reveal there are various equipment still to be put to use even after a long time has elapsed since their procurement. A DIG from BSF's Eastern Command shot off letters last year to his superiors in Delhi as well as the Central Information Commissioner, bringing to their notice that "sub-standard equipment were also procured".

Claiming that BSF's 'G' (Intelligence) Branch had also written numerous reports against the project to the superior officers in Delhi, the DIG put it on record that "some of the equipment are being shifted to other places", though he did not specify the locations.

Last year, an internal audit exercise by a Guwahati-based Inspector General of the BSF described BOLD-QIT as a "failed project". The BSF's 174th battalion was stationed in Dhubri when the project was executed. The Dhubri sector is now guarded by the 19th and 41 battalions.

North Block sources revealed to TNIE that neither the home ministry nor the BSF has taken any concrete steps to "hold senior officials responsible for the utter waste of public money". The sources said, "The government talks a lot about strengthening security but has taken no foolproof measures to plug the eastern borders with Bangladesh, especially when the ministry has a dedicated border management division."

Senior MHA officials were chary to comment on the waste of public money in relation to the lapse in Dhubri, which has been one of the most porous sections of the India-Bangladesh border and has been prone to illegal immigration.

The failure of BOLD-QIT has put in question the security of the "entire span of Brahmaputra". For instance, the data network generated by Microwave communication, OFC cable, DMR communication, day and night surveillance cameras and intrusion detection systems, which were to be tied to BOLD-QIT, have also collapsed.

GRAND PLAN GONE TO WASTE?

Gadgets like thermal imagers, infra-red and laser-based intruder alarms, ground sensors were used for the surveillance system

When CIBMS was included into the border management plan, it was to enable the BSF to equip the India-Bangladesh border with different kinds of sensors in the unfenced riverine stretches of the Brahmaputra and its tributaries

The CIBMS concept involved integrating manpower, sensors and command and control to improve "situational awareness and facilitate quick response to emerging situations"

While CIBMS's major component is the 'virtual fence', its second part is the command and control structure, which aims to optimise the use of resources for border management, and the third component is power management to keep CIBMS running

Assam shows the way: Shah's swipe at Didi on infiltration

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on Tuesday took potshots at the Trinamool Congress government on illegal Bangladeshi immigration by highlighting the active steps taken in Assam.

At a rally in Guwahati on the first anniversary of Himanta Biswa Sarma's BJP-led government, Shah lamented that Bengal was not cooperating with the Centre in preventing "infiltration". "By standing like a wall against infiltration, the Assam government is helping the Centre. This is the reason why we are getting a lot of success in Assam. But there is no cooperation from Bengal and as such, there is no success in the state," he said.

The Home Minister said statistics revealed the cases of illegal migration of people from Bangladesh to Assam got reduced substantially over the past six years under the BJP. Some works are left and once they are completed, infiltration can be checked, he said.

Shah lauded the Sarma government for clearing encroachment at the Satras (Vaishnavite prayer centres). "We had promised to rid the Satras of infiltrators. In entire Assam, 10,700 bighas of land have been freed of the infiltrators by the BJP government," he said. "We had also promised that we will not allow the smuggling of cows to Bangladesh through Assam. I can proudly say today that all doors have been shut. The smugglers are now afraid of the Assam police from Assam to Hyderabad."

Shah claimed violence, agitation, insurgency in Assam had been replaced by peace, development, health and education under the BJP — first by former CM Sarbananda Sonowal and then by the incumbent CM Sarma. He said efforts were being made towards resolving Assam's boundary disputes with some states. "After 30 years, AFSPA has been removed from 60% areas of Assam. It was removed as peace was established. Under the Congress, the AFSPA was extended 60 times."

Shah alleged that "the previous governments had kept the northeast region divided over various issues for political benefits".

He also took a swipe at Congress leader Rahul Gandhi over his poll promise of removing the AFSPA. "I want to tell Rahul baba that you had said if the Congress came to power in the 2019 polls, the AFSPA would be repealed but your promise was an act of appeasement."

Hardik in Guj rally, Rahul gets boost

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

BACK from vacation, Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday landed in the tribal-dominated Dahod in north-eastern Gujarat and accused PM Modi of creating two Indias, one for the rich and another for the poor. The former Congress chief charged the Centre with handing over resources of the country to a few wealthy people.

The upshot of the rally was the presence of Hardik Patel, the sulking state party working president. The Patidar leader has let his resentment against the state leaders known. The party has said Rahul was in touch with Patel, but the latter has denied any such communication.

While addressing the party's Adivasi Satyagraha rally, Rahul slammed the Centre on a range of issue beginning demonetization, GST, Covid-19, and MNREGA. "PM Modi made fun of (rural job guarantee scheme) MNREGA in the Lok Sabha. Think of it – had MNREGA not been there, what would have happened to the poor at the time of the Covid pandemic?"

He asked the tribal communities to take part in Congress satyagraha, saying the proposed Par Tapi Narmada river-linking project will be scrapped if the Congress government is formed in Gujarat.

The tribals from Valsad, Navsari, Tapi, and Surat districts are strongly opposed to the project and have held a series of protests saying their lands were being taken over.

Later, Rahul danced to a song with the tribal tune 'Congress Party Re Congress Party.' Congress MLA Chandrikaben Baria joined him on the stage as the Congress leader was seen raising his hands with her.

Congress focuses on tribal votes in two states

New Delhi: As its rivals are actively wooing tribal voters, the Congress is looking to focus on tribal belts to strengthen its core votebank in election-bound Gujarat and Rajasthan. While Congress leader Rahul Gandhi in Dahod tried to woo tribals, the Gandhis on May 16 will address a rally in Rajasthan's Banswara to send a message that the party stands with tribals. In Gujarat, where the faction-ridden Congress is trying to put its own house in order, the BJP is focusing on tribal areas while Chotubhai Vasava's Bhartiya Tribal Party along with the AAP are working to make inroads into its stronghold. The party's plan to hold a rally in Banswada, Rajasthan on May 16 after the culmination of Chintan Shivir is also seen as a move to woo the tribals. The rally is likely to be addressed by the three Gandhis. Richa Sharma

Gyanvapi case: Court battle on in full swing

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

THE court hearing in the Shringar Gauri Sthal worship case will continue on Wednesday as the arguments in the case remained inconclusive.

After hearing their arguments, civil judge (senior division) Ravi Kumar Diwakar directed both sides – the plaintiffs' lawyer Sudhir Tripathi and Anjuman Intejamiya Masajid (AIM) lawyer Abhay Nath Yadav -- to return on Wednesday.

The AIM had filed a petition last week on May 7, urging the court to replace advocate commissioner Ajay Kumar Mishra. It accused him of bias and working under the pressure of the plaintiffs. Mishra had been entrusted by the court to carry out the survey and videography of Shringar Gauri Stahl present on the premises of the mosque in the presence of both the parties.

Meanwhile, the plaintiffs' lawyer also filed a petition on Monday, praying for court's direction for the videography of the basement of the mosque premises as well. It also requested the court to direct the local administration and police to ensure the videography.

Earlier, the court had asked Mishra to start the work of survey and videography on Gyanvapi on May 6 and 7. The process of survey and videography commenced on May 6 in the presence of the representatives of both the parties, but work was stalled by the AIM when it did not allow lawyers to enter the mosque on May 7.

BJP bent on dividing Hindus & Muslims: PDP chief

PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti on Tuesday dared the BJP to convert Taj Mahal and Red Fort into temples. Mehbooba claimed that the BJP wants to create a wedge between Muslims and Hindus and wants the two communities to fight against each other.

MINING ROW

Soren seeks time to reply to EC notice

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Ranchi

JHARKHAND Chief Minister Hemant Soren has sought more time from the Election Commission (EC) to respond to the notice seeking explanation in the alleged office of profit controversy.

After going through the documents submitted by a BJP delegation against Soren in the mining lease row, the poll panel had asked the Jharkhand CM to reply by May 10.

"The Chief Minister has written a letter to EC seeking some extra time to study the notice issued to him. Since he was in Hyderabad when the notice was served at his official residence on May 2, he has not been able to study the notice. Hence, he needs some more time," JMM legislator Sudivya Kumar said in a press briefing.

It is up to the poll panel to decide the duration of time to be given to Soren for filing his response, Kumar said.

On February 10, former CM Raghubar Das led a BJP delegation to the Governor House and submitted a memorandum seeking disqualification and removal of Soren.

The opposition party accused him of violating the constitutional provision under Section 9A of The Representation of the People Act. The Governor had then forwarded documents to the poll panel.

RPG attack: Mann vows tough action

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

PUNJAB Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann on Tuesday said 'some arrests' were made in connection with the RPG attack on the Intelligence Headquarters' of the Punjab Police in Mohali.

After chairing a high-level meeting with the police brass including the DGP, Mann informed the media about the arrests without giving further details. Some inimical forces are constantly trying to foment trouble, but they will never succeed in their nefarious designs, he said. "Those carrying out such acts will have to pay (for disturbing the peace."

While a high alert has been declared in Mohali where the attack took place, the police have not ruled out the terror angle. A case was lodged against unknown persons under relevant sections of the IPC, UAPA and Explosive Act.

Sources in the police force said Pakistan-based gangster-turned-terrorist Harwinder Singh alias Rinda is emerging as the prime suspect in the case. Rinda also a has hand in the recent seizure of explosives which were being sent to Telengana from Punjab, the sources added.

Preliminary investigation findings suggest that the attack was executed by a gang active in both Punjab and Haryana on the behest of Rinda. "Two persons in a car fired the RPG at the intelligence headquarters and then fled towards Haryana. He has been using his links among gangsters to carry out terror activities in Punjab," said a source. "It seems the accused were hired for the job by people operating from abroad. It is disturbing that the terror groups are recruiting youths easily by offering money."

In MP, BJP looks within as it takes up dynastic politics

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal

MORE than a year ahead of the Madhya Pradesh polls, the BJP has made it clear that it will not accept 'parivar-vaad' (dynastic politics) within, in a warning to its leaders not to project their family members as claimants to the party ticket.

Indications about the party's strategy came on Tuesday on the sidelines of meetings of senior central leaders with state party's core group members in the state capital.

"The PM has already made it clear that family or dynastic politics won't be allowed. It's a clear indication for the future," said BJP senior leader Kailash Vijayvargiya.

Interestingly, Vijayvargiya's son Akash is the first-time BJP MLA from Indore-III seat. If sources are to be believed, then either of them won't be able to contest the assembly or 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

The PM's 'zero tolerance' to 'parivar-vaad' will also cast a shadow on the 'son-rise' among present ministers and other senior BJP leaders. At least a dozen such leaders may invite a review of their ticket claims.

These leaders include home minister Narottam Mishra's son Sukarna, PWD minister Gopal Bhargava's son Abhishek, agriculture minister Kamal Patel's son Sudip, ex-Lok Sabha Speaker Sumita Mahajan's son Mandar, ex state BJP chief Nandkumar Singh Chauhan's son Harshvardhan, ex finance minister Jayant Malaiya's son Siddharth, ex forest minister Gaurishankar Shejwar's son Mudit, ex MP Prabhat Jha's son Tushmul, Union agriculture minister Narendra Singh Tomar's son Devendra and Backward Caste Commission head Gourishankar Bisen's daughter Mausam.

Even the present cabinet has members whose fathers have been senior BJP leaders. While medical education minister Vishvas Sarang's father Late Kailash Sarang was a RS member, science and technology minister OP Sakhlecha is the son of former CM Late Virendra Kumar Sakhlecha and sports minister Yashodhara Raje Scindia is the youngest daughter of Vijaya Raje Scindia.

Many other present MLAs too are sons, daughters or spouses of senior BJP leaders. State BJP sources say one of these MLAs, ex-minister Surendra Patwa, has stopped visiting his constituency Bhojpur in view of the possibility of him not being fielded in 2023.

In UP polls, BJP had denied the party ticket to the relatives of many existing ministers and lawmakers, including Rita Bahuguna Joshi's son Mayank.

The PM has already made it clear that family or dynastic politics won't be allowed. It's a clear indication for the future

Ignorance is not a bliss, finds Noida CEO

Ignorance is not a bliss always. Sometimes it could cost dearly. As it did with Noida Authority CEO Ritu Maheshwari who is facing a non-bailable warrant issued by Allahabad High Court which has been further upheld by the Supreme Court of India. Though Maheshwari first ignored HC summons in a contempt case, got an NBW issued against her, went to SC for relief but failed to get it. Instead, the apex court admonished her by saying being an IAS officer if she could flout the norms, she would set a wrong precedence for fellow officers and for that she would have to face the consequences of ignoring the HC summons. In brief relief, however, the apex court stayed her arrest on Tuesday.

Jail-time after imitator walks through traffic

If not Bollywood then the city of nawabs. Azam Ansari, a Salman Khan lookalike, who has made Lucknow his oyster, recently filmed a reel (a short video) near the famous Clock Tower amid a huge crowd to witness the 'bootleg' Salman Khan. This not only caused traffic congestion in old city areas but also landed the impersonator in Lucknow police net for disturbing peace. The cops got active after receiving a flurry of complaints from local commuters and charged him with breach of peace under Section 151. Ansari, who thinks he looks like the Bollywood hearthrob has often been sighted in the streets and landmarks of the city filming reels for Instagram. On YouTube, he has over 1.67 lakh subscribers.

Mulayam to save face of SP amid rift

Finally, Samajwadi Party patriarch Mulayam Singh Yadav has stepped in to stop the ongoing Akhilesh-Shivpal rift which has snowballed into a big row. The SP patriarch has refused to acknowledge the presence of Shivpal's party while addressing the party cadre recently. He claimed that there were only two parties – SP and BJP – existing in UP. MSY, as part of a strategy, made the claim which is also being seen as a bid to stop senior SP leaders' defection to Shivpal's party in the near future as a large chunk of SP leaders backs Shivpal and believes that justice should be done to him. SP aims to perform well in the various local body elections and this message by MSY will try and unite all SP leaders.

Protests erupt at Lankan naval base housing ex-PM Mahinda

A group of lawyers lodges complaint with the police headquarters to arrest Mahinda Rajapaksa | Crowd attacks, sets fire to vehicle carrying Colombo's top cop

COLOMBO

SRI Lankan authorities issued shoot-on-sight orders on Tuesday to quell further unrest that has seen buildings and vehicles set ablaze a day after the island was rocked by deadly violence and rioting.

With thousands of security forces enforcing a curfew, the defence ministry said troops "have been ordered to shoot on sight anyone looting public property or causing harm to life".

On Monday, government supporters attacked with sticks and clubs demonstrators in Colombo protesting peacefully for weeks over a dire economic crisis and demanding President Gotabaya Rajapaksa's resignation.

> I appeal young men and women to refrain from engaging in violence. Do not set fire to public and private property, and engage in your struggle in a democratic & peaceful manner
> Gen (Retd) Kamal Gunaratne, def. secy

Mobs then retaliated across the country late into the night, torching dozens of homes of ruling-party politicians and trying to storm the prime minister's official residence in the capital.

Protests continued on Tuesday despite the curfew, with some people defying the shoot-on-sight order to torch buildings and vehicles. A luxury hotel said to belong to a Rajapaksa relative was set on fire on Tuesday evening on the edge of the Sinharaja rainforest.

And police shot into the air at two locations to disperse mobs trying to burn vehicles.

Earlier, a crowd attacked and set fire to a vehicle carrying Colombo's most senior policeman. Officers fired warning shots and sent in reinforcements to rescue Senior Deputy Inspector-General Deshabandu Tennakoon, who was rushed to hospital but later released after treatment.

A protest also erupted in front of Sri Lanka's Trincomalee Naval Base on Tuesday after reports emerged that former prime minister Mahinda Rajapaksa and some of his family members were there after leaving the official residence in Colombo, a media report said.

As well as those killed, more than 225 people were injured on Monday, which also saw the resignation of prime minister Mahinda Rajapaksa.

His departure, however, failed to quell public anger, with his brother still president and wielding widespread powers including command over security forces.

Mahinda had to be rescued in a pre-dawn military operation after thousands of angry protesters stormed his official residence overnight and lobbed petrol bombs.

Protester Chamal Polwattage said he expected demonstrations to swell again. "People are angry about the attacks launched against us yesterday... We have a lot of volunteers bringing food and water for us," the 25-year-old said.

The Rajapaksa clan's hold on power has been shaken by months of blackouts and shortages of essential goods in Sri Lanka's worst economic crisis since independence in 1948.

The pandemic torpedoed vital tourism and forced the government to halt most imports to save foreign currency needed to pay its debts, on which it has now defaulted. AFP

Agitators set up checkpoint on road

Anti-government protesters in Sri Lanka on Tuesday set up a checkpoint on the road leading to the Bandaranaike International Airport in Colombo to prevent the Rajapaksa family loyalists from fleeing the country. "Large group of people have set up a checkpoint on the road leading to the Katunayake Airport. They are trying to prevent ruling faction loyalists from fleeing the country," News 1st channel reported. 'People now view India more favourably'

"THE President has the power to appoint a PM without anyone's consent. For now he needs to appoint the interim government and bring in reforms like removing excessive executive powers,'' said the expert.

When Mahinda became PM, he brought in the 20th Amendment to the Constitution that restored sweeping powers of the President.

Chances of going back to the 19th Amendment that had restricted the President's executive powers are bright when the new interim government is in place so as to reduce people's anger against the Rajapaksa clan.

While Mahinda had a distinct China tilt, Gotabaya and former finance minister Basil are favourably bent towards India. There are allegations that protesters demanding Gotabaya's sack have China's support.

"The Chinese have been seen taking people from all walks of life for trips to China to showcase development. People in Sri Lanka were optimistic that it would be replicated back home. However, they have now begun to doubt all that and view India more favourably," the expert added.

Ecuador prison riot leaves 44 dead

SANTO DOMINGO DE LOS COLORADOS

AT LEAST 44 inmates died on Monday in Ecuador's latest grisly prison riot, the public prosecutor said, as another 100 prisoners managed to escape.

Authorities said a fight broke out between the rival Los Lobos and R7 gangs inside the Bellavista prison in Santo Domingo de los Colorados, in the center of Ecuador some 80km from Quito. During the riot, dozens of inmates tried to escape.

Police chief Fausto Salinas told reporters that 108 were missing after another 112 escaped prisoners were recaptured. The South American country's prison authority SNAI said it has activated security protocols to contain the "disturbances to order." Six gang leaders were transferred from Bellavista to two maximum security prisons, the interior ministry said.

RUSSIA POUNDS VITAL PORT OF ODESA, TARGETS SUPPLY LINES

ZAPORIZHZHIA

RUSSIAN troops pounded the vital port of Odesa, Ukrainian officials said on Tuesday, an apparent effort to disrupt the supply lines and Western weapons shipments critical to Kyiv's defense.

Ukraine's ability to stymie a larger, better-armed Russian military has surprised many who had anticipated a much quicker conflict. With the war now in its 11th week and Kyiv bogging Russian forces down and even staging a counteroffensive, Ukraine's foreign minister appeared to suggest the country could expand its aims beyond merely pushing Russia back to areas that the country or its allies held on the day of the February 24 invasion.

One of the most dramatic examples of Ukraine's ability to deny Moscow easy victories has been Mariupol, where Ukrainian fighters remained holed up at a steel plant, denying Russia's full control of the city. The regiment defending the plant said Tuesday that Russian warplanes continued pounding it.

In recent days, the UN and Red Cross organised a dramatic rescue of what some officials said were the last civilians trapped at the plant. But on Tuesday, two officials said about 100 were believed to still be in the complex's underground tunnels.

In another harrowing example of the grisly toll the war continues to take, the Ukrainians said they found the bodies of 44 civilians in the rubble of a building destroyed weeks ago in the northeastern city of Izyum.

The Ukrainian military said Russian forces fired seven missiles on Monday at Ukraine's largest port, Odesa, hitting a shopping center and a warehouse. One person was killed and five wounded, the military said. Images overnight showed a burning building and debris — including a tennis shoe — in a heap of destruction in the city on the Black Sea. Mayor Gennady Trukhanov later visited the warehouse and said it "had nothing in common with military infrastructure or military objects."

Ukraine alleged at least some of the munitions used dated to the Soviet era, making them unreliable in targeting. But the Center for Defense Strategies, a Ukrainian think tank tracking the war, said Moscow used some precision weapons against Odesa: Kinzhal, or "Dagger," hypersonic air-to-surface missiles. AP

OVER 1,000 UKRAINE FIGHTERS STILL IN AZOVSTAL PLANT

Kyiv: Kyiv on Tuesday said that more than 1,000 Ukrainian troops, many of them injured, remained in the sprawling Azovstal steelworks in the port city of Mariupol. "More than a thousand" Ukrainian soldiers remain in the plant, said Deputy Prime Minister Iryna Vereshchuk. AFP

Pulitzer Board honours Ukrainian journalists covering Russia's invasion

NEW YORK

THE Pulitzer Prize Board honoured Ukrainian journalists on Monday for their "courage, endurance and commitment to truthful" coverage of Russia's invasion of their country.

The board awarded a "special citation" to the journalists of Ukraine as New York's Columbia University announced the 2022 winners of the prestigious awards.

"Despite bombardment abductions, occupation and even deaths in their ranks, they have persisted in their effort to provide an accurate picture of a terrible reality, doing honour to Ukraine and to journalists around the world," said prize administrator Marjorie Miller, announcing the accolade.

The New York Times scooped up the most news Pulitzers with three. The newspaper won the international reporting category for exposing the vast civilian toll of US-led airstrikes across the Middle East, including in Iraq, Syria and Afghanistan. It also took the award for national reporting for its investigation into deadly police traffic stops around the United States. Salamishah Tillet, a contributing critic at large for the Times, won the criticism category for her writing on race in arts and culture.

The Washington Post won the public service category for its "compellingly told and vividly presented account" of the storming of the US Capitol by ex-president Donald Trump's supporters on January 6, 2021.

Five Getty photographers won the breaking news photography category for their "comprehensive and consistently riveting photos" of the assault. AFP

Marcos Jr, Duterte new Philippines prez, vice-prez

Manila : The son of the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos and the daughter of outgoin g president Rodrigo Duterte are the new leaders of the Philippines, an alliance that ushers in six years of governance that has some human rights activists concerned about the course their country may take with the pair in power. Ferdinand Marcos Jr, 64, a former provincial governor, congressman and senator, has managed to return his family to the presidency 36 years after the 'People Power' revolt ousted his father and sent him into exile for filching billions and mass human rights abuses. Marcos Jr. has defended his father's legacy and steadfastly refuses to apologize for or acknowledge the atrocities and plunder during the dictatorship. Throughout his campaign, he tenaciously stuck to a battle cry of national unity. He denies accusations that he financed a yearslong social media campaign that harnessed online trolls to smear opponents and whitewash the Marcos family's checkered history.' AP

Swiggy scales down Supr Daily, shuts Genie in 3 cities

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

ONLINE food delivery major Swiggy has temporarily shut its Genie services in 3 cities- Bengaluru, Mumbai and Hyderabad - due to shortage of delivery workforce. It has also suspended Supr Daily, a subscription-based delivery service, in five cities.

Genie is a pick-up and drop-off service available in 65 cities. Sources privy to the development said this temporary shutdown is due to rising demand for servicing in the food marketplace and Instamart. Due to the cricketing season, Swiggy is seeing a surge in food delivery. Also, because of a shortage of delivery workers, it is prioritising its marketplace and Instamart services. Genie was in huge demand during the pandemic season, as people ordered food and medicine drop-off service via this platform.

The firm, which acquired Supr Daily in 2018, said in a blog post it will suspend operations in 5 cities - Delhi-NCR, Mumbai, Pune, Hyderabad and Chennai - as a part of the restructuring plan. It will continue to serve users in Bengaluru and double down on its efforts in the city. "We have a transition and closure plan in place to make it less painful for our users as well as brand and vendor partners," Swiggy said.

Adani, JSW in race for Holcim assets

Aditya Birla Group's UltraTech is also in the fray for acquiring Ambuja Cements and ACC

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

AHMEDABAD-BASED Adani Group, JSW Cement and Aditya Birla Group are in the fray for acquiring Swiss-based Holcim's cement assets— Ambuja Cements and ACC — cumulatively valued at around $14.5 bn, with Adani believed to be leading the race, multiple sources told TNIE.

"Adani Group is ahead in the race and has tied up funding requisite for the deal," one of the source said.

The unlisted JSW Cement is also making a bid and would offer $7bn, with $4.5 bn of its own equity and $2.5 bn of private equity funding, an FT report cited JSW Group chairman Sajjan Jindal as saying.

The third is Grasim Industries promoted UltraTech Cement, India's largest cement company, followed by Swiss -based Holcim. Grasim Industries is part of Aditya Birla Group. The reason for the sale is Holcim's reported objective of selling its cement assets across markets and focusing on the building materials segment.

Queries to Holcim, Aditya Birla Group and Adani Group went answered till press time. A JSW group spokesperson declined comment.

Holcim holds 63.19% of Ambuja Cements. ACC is a subsidiary of Ambuja, which holds 50.05% in it. The two have a combined production capacity of 64.05 mn tonnes a year. The Aditya Birla Group, whose UltraTech is the country's largest cement company with around 120 mn tonne per annum capacity, is also a contender. But it is not clear how the company will qualify given the monopolistic position it will be in if it acquires Holcim's assets.

Ambuja Cements and ACC's combined market cap was ₹1.12 lakh cr on Tuesday. The Indian cement industry is the world's second-largest with a capacity of 540 mn tonnes a year in 2020. In the quarter ended March 2022, Ambuja Cements posted a net profit of ₹495.17 crore on revenue of ₹3,925.22 crore.

ACC posted net profit of ₹392 crore on revenue of ₹4,426.5 crore in Q4,2022.

Government yet to define crypto as goods or services

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE government is yet to define whether cryptocurrencies are goods or services before it brings these currencies under goods and services tax (GST) ambit, as per govt sources.

The clarification comes after reports stated that the GST Council is mulling to tax cryptos at 28%.

"First it is to be decided whether cryptos are goods or services. If it is goods then under which tariff item it should come and what should be the GST rate. These three things need to be decided to get clarity related to GST on cryptos," a government official said.

Currently, a 30% tax is levied on gains made through transfer of these currencies and other virtual assets. Meanwhile, 1% TDS will also apply on crypto transfers from July 1, 2022. In addition, 18% tax is levied on services provided by crypto exchanges. After the government imposed tax on crypto transfers at 30% from April 1, it has not taken any stance on its regulation. Recently, finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman, in Washington, raised concerns about money laundering and illegal funding including terrorism via cryptos. She said India would take a considerate decision on crypto regulation

As per sources, if GST is imposed on virtual currencies then it will be prospective and not retrospective.

"The government has not commented on legality of cryptos. However, mulling of higher GST and introduction of TDS under income tax along with capital gain provision seems to be aimed at deterring investor participation in the sector. Imposition of higher GST on B2C transaction without mechanism to avail credit will lead to double taxation on crypto trading. This will have a direct impact on the crypto facilitators like brokers, platform and exchanges," L Badri Narayanan, executive partner, Lakshmikumaran & Sridharan Attorneys said.

INVESTORS RUSH HEADLONG INTO BONDS AND DEPOSITS

Chinese investors are shunning equity funds and piling into bonds, deposits and money market products, as stocks tumble and a gloomy economic outlook saps demand for risky assets. Money is heading so quickly into some deposit-investment vehicles that fund managers have started restricting flows to keep a lid on size. Risk aversion is also prodding banks themselves to plough money into commercial paper, rather than corporate loans, complicating Beijing's efforts to guide more credit into the pandemic-hit economy. Fresh fundraising by active equity and balanced mutual funds in China slumped 83% during the Jan-April period from a year earlier, to 154.6 billion yuan ($23 billion), according to fund consultancy Z-Ben Advisors. The tumbling demand was "caused not only by the A-share market decline, but also the persistent underperformance of Chinese equity funds," said Ivan Shi, Z-Ben's head of research. An index tracking the performance of Chinese active equity funds has plummeted 25% so far this year, compared with a 17% loss in the benchmark index.

JAPAN

BANK OF JAPAN'S BOND BUYING DRAWS SCRUTINY

Japanese policymakers were forced to reassure markets on Tuesday the government was not forcing the Bank of Japan to bank-roll public debt, after former premier Shinzo Abe described the central bank as a government "subsidiary" that can fund its spending indefinitely. When asked in parliament about the remark, Finance Minister Shunichi Suzuki said the government did not believe it was fine to have the BOJ buy and roll over government debt indefinitely. "We must avoid creating a situation where Japan could lose market trust over its finances," Suzuki said. Chief Cabinet Secretary Hirokazu Matsuno also told reporters that the government must respect the BOJ's jurisdiction in setting monetary policy. The remarks came after Abe was quoted as saying by local media on Monday that it was "totally fine" to roll over the government's huge debt sold to the central bank "because the BOJ is the government's subsidiary." Comments from Abe, who yields strong influence in political circles, drew fire from opposition lawmakers as a sign the BOJ's ultra-loose policy was allowing the government to keep up huge spending despite Japan's ballooning public debt. It also stoked concern Japan is edging closer to debt monetisation, a practice prohibited under law in which the central bank directly underwrites government borrowing.

SOUTH KOREA

FRAGILE WON, US RATES POINT TO FASTER TIGHTENING

South Korea's central bank got ahead of the tightening curve last year but now faces pressure to move faster and farther as the weakening won fuels inflation and the US Federal Reserve takes a big-step approach to raising rates. The Bank of Korea, the first major Asian central bank to shift away from crisis-era settings last August, must address a narrowing policy-rate gap with the United States. If domestic rates trend lower than U.S. rates, capital outflows could pile more pressure on the currency. Governor Rhee Chang-yong, perceived to be less hawkish than his predecessor, will be chairing his first policy meeting this month when factors such as the Russia-Ukraine war make it harder to predict when inflation will eventually cool. "Inflation repeatedly topped expectations and this means the South Korean policy rate in fact fell in real terms despite recent hikes," JPMorgan Chase Bank economist Seok Gil Park said. The bank raised its rate projection to 2.50% by year-end from 2.00% previously. The won has fallen nearly 7% so far this year to around 1,273 per dollar after last year's near 9% loss and may breach the psychologically-important 1,300 won barrier for the first time since the 2008/09 global financial crisis.

Merc sees over 1k booking before new C-Class launch

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

EVEN as overall automobile market in India is facing several headwinds, there is no dearth of buyers for luxury cars. Country's largest player in this segment- Mercedes Benz - said it has received over 1,000 bookings for its new C-Class sedan even before launch, highest ever for a model in India.

The German carmaker on Tuesday launched the fifth-generation (W206) of its best seller the C-Class at a starting price of ₹55 lakhs (ex-showroom India) for the C 200 variant. The diesel variant C 220d is priced at 56 lakhs and the C 300d variant comes at ₹61 lakhs.

Martin Schwenk, managing director & CEO, Mercedes-Benz India, said, "C-Class has always enjoyed a strong customer preference in India with over 37,000 customers' loyalty. The interest level of customers has exceeded our expectations, resulting in over 1,000 bookings for the 'Baby S' even before its launch, making it one of the most anticipated luxury cars to be introduced in the market today."

Strong booking for Mercedes comes after the carmaker had reported its highest-ever sales figures in a quarter. It had sold 4,022 units in the first three months of this year, resulting in year-on-year growth of 26%. Compared to this, total auto sales in January-March 2022 period came down to 46,04,242 units from 55,84,313 units in the same quarter a year ago, according to SIAM data. Merc's competitor BMW had also posted one of its best quarters in India in the Jan-Mar period with a 25.3% jump in four-wheeler sales to 2,815 units.

DIGITAL payments company BharatPe on Tuesday said, if required, it will be filing criminal cases against some of its employees for the misconduct and act of cheating committed by them against the company.

It has terminated the services of several employees across departments who were involved with blocked vendors.

The board of BharatPe has initiated the corporate governance review of the company, and accordingly many vendors who were involved in malpractices have been blocked for further business with the company, it said in a statement.

The fintech unicorn, which is IPO-hopeful, also said that it has initiated necessary action against the former founder Ashneer Grover to claw back his restricted shares as per the shareholders' agreement and that it will take all steps to enforce its rights. BharatPe came under media scrutiny in the beginning of this year after an audio clip claiming to be of Grover threatening a bank employee for missing out the Nykaa IPO went viral. After Grover went on a voluntary leave, the board started conducting an independent audit of the firm's internal process.

BharatPe appointed professional services firm Alvarez & Marsal (A&M) and law firm Shardul Amarchand Mangaldas & Co (SAM) to help the board with its governance review and also appointed consulting firm PwC to determine wilful misconduct by Ashneer Grover.

Soon after this, Grover resigned from the firm as MD. After over two months of review, the board of BharatPe has recommended several measures including the new code of conduct to senior management and employees. The review has identified a set of measures including a comprehensive vendor procurement policy.

The revenue of the telco grew by 5.4% quarterly to ₹10,240 crore, supported by tariff hikes effective Nov 25, 2021. The company said its Average Daily Revenue (ARPU) rose by 7.7% quarter-on-quarter, highest quarterly growth since merger. The ARPU for the quarter stands at ₹124 vs ₹115 in the prior quarter.

Its EBITDA (pre IndAS116) improved to ₹2,120 crore, compared to ₹1,620 crore in the last quarter driven by improvement in revenue, which is partially offset by higher subscriber acquisition costs due to higher gross additions during the quarter. On a reported basis, EBITDA for the quarter was ₹4,650 crore.

"We completed the first tranche of fundraising of ₹450 crore from our promoters. We continue to engage with lenders and investors for further fundraising," said Ravinder Takkar, MD & CEO of Vodafone Idea Limited.

Coal-based power generation up 9.26% in April

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ NewDelhi

COAL-based power generation has witnessed a growth of 9.26% to 1,02,529 million units (MU) in April as compared to the year-ago period.

According to the data released by the coal ministry on Tuesday, the overall power generation in April, 2022, has been 11.75% higher than the power generated in April 2021 and 2.23% higher than power generated in March 2022.

Coal-based power generation in the month of April, 2022 has been 1,02,529 MU in comparison to 1,00,276 MU in March 2022 and registered a growth of 2.25 %. Total power generation has also increased in April 2022 to 1,36,565 MU from 1,33,584 MU in March 2022.

The ministry had earlier said that the current power crisis is mainly on account of sharp decline in electricity generation from different fuel sources and not due to non-availability of domestic coal.

POWER SHORTAGE

Earlier, the power ministry in its official order directed all imported coal-based power plants to operate and generate power at their full capacity and (gencos) based on domestic coal will have to import at least 10% of their fuel requirement.

The total coal production increased by 29% to 66.58 million tonne (MT) from 51.62 MT in April 2022, as compared to April, 2021. At the same time, coal despatch increased by 8.66% to 71.30 MT from 65.62 MT during April, 2022 as compared to April, 2020. The Power utilities coal despatch has gone up by 18.15 % to 61.81 MT during April, 2022 as compared to 52.32 MT in April, 2020.

Meanwhile, rating agency ICRA has said in a report that higher coal imports is likely to increase cost of supply for discoms by 4.5-5% in 2022-2023. The rating agency said measures directed by the government to ease power supply constraints through imports is thus likely to considerably increase the import dependency for the power sector from nearly 4% in 2021-2022 to about 12-13% in 2022-2023.

Earlier, the power ministry in its official order directed all imported coal-based power plants to operate and generate power at their full capacity and (gencos) based on domestic coal will have to import at least 10% of their fuel requirement.

Govt asks Ola, Uber to improve their services

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government has warned cab aggregators, including Ola and Uber, of strict action if they don't improve their services and answer to rising consumer complaints.

"We told them about the rising consumer complaints against their platforms. We gave them the statistics also. We have asked them to improve their system and redress the consumer complaints otherwise the competent authority will take strict action," said Consumer Affairs Secretary Rohit Kumar Singh.

The government on Tuesday held a meeting with the ride-hailing companies amid a rise in consumer complaints of alleged unfair trade practices, including cancellation policy which at times results in customers paying cancellation penalties. Central Consumer Protection Authority (CCPA) Chief Commissioner Nidhi Khare said the cab aggregators should immediately come out with solutions.

"The authority is likely to issue an advisory to ensure that unfair trade practices by cab aggregators are not carried on in violation of consumers' rights," she added.

World Boxing C'ships: Nitu eases into second round

Indian boxer Nitu (48kg) made a strong start to get the better of Steluta Duta of Romania in the ongoing IBA Women's World Championships in Turkey, on Tuesday. Two decisions in new sanction lists stand out

FLIPSIDE

INDRANEEL DAS

After months, the National Anti-Doping Agency (NADA) has updated the Anti-Doping Disciplinary Panel (ADDP) and Anti-Doping Appeals Panel (ADAP) list. Five athletes were sanctioned after preliminary hearing by the ADDP. There are a couple of judgments/orders — one by the ADDP and the other by ADAP — that seemed interesting, surprising and extraordinary. Both involved steroid offences.

One involves Rakesh Pandey, an experienced para-shuttler who has been given a sanction of two years for returning an adverse analytical finding (AAF) for nandrolone (19 nortestosterone), an anabolic androgenic steroid. According to the judgment dated 18.04.2022, the disciplinary panel found enough merit in the athlete's argument that the four-year ineligibility for first time steroid offence was reduced to two. Of course, everything depends on interpretation by the committee. The argument, however, seems quite interesting. After the athlete tested positive, in response to a notice, he told NADA: "... he got a severe unbearable lower back pain and his family took him to a nearby hospital... and the doctor gave him medicines and injunction (injections)..." And that it was an out of competition sample test and he had mentioned about the medication in the dope control form (DCF); but he could not take TUE (Therapeutic Use Exemption) because the pain was unbearable and condition severe.

After hearing, the ADDP found seven points in favour of the athlete and three against. Here's a few points the panel said was in his favour: "it was an out of competition sample testing; the athlete with all bonafide intention mentioned about the said medication in DCF itself; the athlete has no intention to cheat...; the panel concluded saying "from the totality of the events as explained, the sincerity and honesty of the athlete is not under doubt."

Involvement of coach

The other involves young athlete Kirti Bhoite, a sprinter, who tested positive for steroid during the Khelo India Youth Games in Guwahati in 2020. She was handed a four-year suspension by the ADDP but after the athlete appealed, it was reduced to two years by the ADAP on the ground that "she has not consumed any prohibited substance intentionally, rather it was the fault of her coach". The order dated April 18, 2022 lists out the circumstances under which the ADDP's four-year ban was reduced to two. The order also revealed the involvement of a coach in administering banned substance.

According to the order, "the primary contention is that her family does not have any background in sports therefore she is completely dependent on her coach Mickey Menzes for training purpose". The hearing also revealed how he used to give her multi-vitamins and injections for recovery. The order said, Maharashtra Athletics Association acted upon a complaint filed by the athlete and found the coach guilty of recommending supplements such as protein, amino acids, energy drinks and pre-workouts to the athlete.

GT PROBLEM SOLVE AGAIN

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

THE doubts have been there from the day the player auctions ended. How will Gujarat Titans mask their weak link? In a format where most teams consider batters to be the be all and end all, with no big auctions on the horizon, one of the two new teams in the IPL, Gujarat's tactics at the auction was interesting.

Having signed Hardik Pandya, Rashid Khan and Shubman Gill before the auction, Gujarat showed interest in Shreyas Iyer after failing to get Pat Cummins and Kagiso Rabada. The first batter they bought at the auction was Jason Roy, who pulled out. They unsuccessfully pursued Washington Sundar, Mitchell Marsh, Ishan Kishan, Liam Livingstone before adding Matthew Wade and Wriddhiman Saha at the fag end after both went unsold. As they confirmed their entry into play-offs, courtesy 62 run win against Lucknow Super Giants, it is safe to say Gujarat have successfully covered up their weak link. Gill hasn't really set the stage on fire, but with 384 runs, he is leading the run charts for Gujarat. And with Pandya and David Miller doing their bit in the middle-order and Tewatia and Saha doing their roles to perfection, they have looked unstoppable.

Despite the wins, Gujarat know their top-order still remains shaky. Vijay Shankar, who they picked for the role at No 3, hasn't made the impact. Sai Sudarshan has looked every bit impressive, but he is still at a stage of his career where he is progressing. Gujarat have even tried Pandya at No 3, but they know their captain is needed much more in the middle-order — specifically in at No 4. On Tuesday against Lucknow Super Giants, they tried Wade at one drop. For a team that has used only 14 players this season and appeared to have a set plan for each role, it is the No 3 role that they have adopted a merry-go-round formula. But none have owned that position, which now is becoming a huge concern as the play-offs near. Right through the season, all their No 3s put together have contributed only 261 runs and although it isn't the lowest in the IPL, Gujarat know it can bite them badly.

Stimac backs India to live up to billing

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

EVER since the draw for the final round of the AFC Asian Cup 2023 qualifiers were made in February, India have been tagged as favourites from Group D, and rightly so. The other three teams in the group — Hong Kong (147), Afghanistan (150) and Cambodia (171) — are all ranked lower than India (106). With Kolkata hosting these matches next month and camps ahead of the qualifiers, there can be no excuses if they fail to qualify.

Last month, a camp was held in Bellary and the team has now shifted to Kolkata for the final phase of preparations. Besides, they are also looking at friendly matches against ATK Mohun Bagan and a team comprising I–League stars before flying to Doha to face Zambia and Jordan later this month. These ties would provide head coach Igor Stimac a wonderful opportunity to see where his players stand before the main qualifiers, starting June 8 against Cambodia at Salt Lake Stadium. There will be great expectations on the home team, and the coach is optimistic about his team's chances. "We are favourites in the group. We are not hiding from that. We are confident about it. We are going to go out there and earn that. I see India in the final stages," he said. "I don't mind how many points we get, goals we score, our aim is to qualify. Of course, if we make three wins (out of three) that would be fantastic." Though they should make it to the continental event in China, Stimac is also wary of the threat Afghanistan will offer. "We know Afghanistan will be a physical game. They are strong guys and full of confidence and international experience."

Spain fires intel chief amid Pegasus hack

The intelligence body has been under fire for taking time to discover that country's top officials' phones were infiltrated

TECHNOLOGY

BARCELONA: Spain's government fired the director of the country's top intelligence agency on Tuesday following the hacking of politicians' cellphones, including the devices of the prime minister and several supporters of the Catalonia region's secession.

The National Intelligence Center, or CNI, has been under fire for its role in spying on Catalan separatists and for taking a full year to discover that the handsets of the prime minister and leading defence and security officials were infiltrated, possibly by a foreign power.

Defence Minister Margarita Robles, who was among the hacking targets, announced after Cabinet meeting that Paz Esteban would be relieved as CNI director.

"That (the hacks of government phones) took a year to discover, well, it is clear there are things that we need to improve," Robles said. "We are going to try to ensure that these attacks don't happen again, even though there is no way to be completely safe."

Esteban's replacement will be Esperanza Casteleiro, "a woman who has worked for almost 40 years" at the intelligence agency, Robles said. Casteleiro most recently served as secretary of defence, Robles No. 2, since 2020.

Esteban acknowledged during a closed-door parliamentary committee hearing last week that with judicial permission, her agency had hacked the phones of several Catalan separatists. In a separate case, the government recently revealed that an "external" power infected the cellphones of Robles and of Prime Minister Pedro Sánchez with the Pegasus spyware last year.

The phone of Interior Minister Fernando Grande-Marlaska, the head of Spain's police and border control agencies, also was infected with the spyware at the same time as the defence minister's phone.

Spain's government has refused to speculate publicly on who could have pried into the phones. The attacks on the phones of Sánchez and two of his ministers took place in May and June 2021, coinciding with a diplomatic rift between Morocco and Spain.

Sánchez's minority left-wing coalition has often had to rely on votes Parliament from Catalan separatist parties, which have threatened to withdraw their support if the government does not accept responsibility for the hacking.

The leader of Spain's opposition conservatives, Popular Party president Alberto Nuñez Feijóo slammed the decision to remove Esteban. He said the government had sacrificed her to the Catalan separatists.

"It is a monstrosity that Sánchez offers the head of the CNI director to the separatists, once again weakening the state to assure his survival," Popular Party President Alberto Nuñez Feijóo wrote on Twitter. Esteban, 64, became the first woman to head the CNI in July 2019, initially on an interim basis. Her appointment was made permanent in February 2020. The previous CNI director had received criticism for failing in 2017 to stop preparations by Catalan separatists to hold an independence referendum that had been deemed illegal by Spain's top courts.

The alleged phone hacks of more than 60 Catalan politicians, lawyers and activists was denounced last month

UN says Yemen oil spill would cost $20 billion

ENVIRONMENT

AMMAN: The United Nations warned on Monday that it would cost $20 billion to clean up an oil spill in the event of the "imminent" break-up of an oil tanker abandoned off Yemen.

"Our recent visit to (the FSO Safer) with technical experts indicates that the vessel is imminently going to break up," the UN humanitarian coordinator for Yemen, David Gressly, said ahead of a conference, hosted by the UN and The Netherlands, to raise funds for an emergency operation to prevent an oil spill.

The 45-year-old FSO Safer, long used as a floating oil storage platform with 1.1 million barrels of crude on board, has been moored off the rebel-held Yemeni port of Hodeida since 2015, without being serviced.

"The impact of a spill will be catastrophic," Gressly continued at a briefing in Amman. "The effect on the environment would be tremendous... our estimate is that $20 billion would be spent just to clean the oil spill." The UN official had earlier announced on Twitter that the Netherlands would host on Wednesday a pledging conference for the international body's plan to avert the crisis.

Last month, the UN said it was seeking nearly $80 million for its operation. It warned of "a humanitarian and ecological catastrophe centred on a country already decimated by more than seven years of war".

GROUPS URGE U.S. FOR ACCESS TO FOREST FUNDING

ENVIRONMENT

RIO DE JANEIRO: Brazilian environmental and Indigenous organizations, together with some companies, are urging the United States to come through with promised funding for forest protection and deal directly with people who live in the forest, have protected it and, they say, "are directly affected by the escalating deforestation."

More than 330 organisations and companies signed a letter released late on Monday ahead of a hearing scheduled for Thursday in the US House Foreign Affairs Committee to discuss a bill introduced in November by House Majority Leader Steny Hoyer.

The bill, known as Amazon21, would create a $9 billion fund administered by the US State Department to finance forest conservation and natural carbon absorption in developing countries.

In the letter, the signatories say passage of the measure would be a sign that President Joe Biden is keeping a pledge he made last year at the international climate conference in Glasgow, Scotland, to contribute up to $9 billion to fight deforestation. Hoyer introduced Amazon21 following the pledge.

The bill's chances for passage in the US Senate as well as the House are uncertain as the Congress and Biden administration focus on military support for Ukraine and domestic elements of Biden's climate agenda remain stalled. Still, the letter notes that the bill targets a main source of greenhouse gas emissions.

Brazil holds about one-third of the Amazon rainforest, the world's largest such tropical forest and an enormous carbon sink.

Attention deficit disorder challenging but treatable

HEALTH

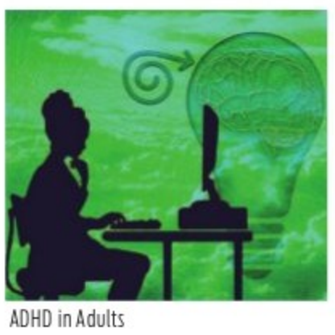
When I was a child in the 1980s, the people I knew with attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder were hyperactive boys who went to the school nurse at lunchtime to get their medicine.

Many people assumed that these boys would "grow out of" their symptoms as teenagers or adults.

For most of the 200-year-plus history of the condition we now know as ADHD, it was considered a childhood disorder. Specialists began to more widely recognize that ADHD can also affect adults only in the 1990s, when scientific evidence showed that some people continue to experience ADHD symptoms into adulthood and that it can profoundly effect their lives.

In the past 30 years, adult ADHD has gone from barely recognized to a well-established disorder with evidence-based treatment options.

In my 20 years studying and treating ADHD in adults, it's been exciting to witness and, in a small way, contribute to advances in evidence-based treatment for adult ADHD made by researchers around the world.



ADHD in Adults

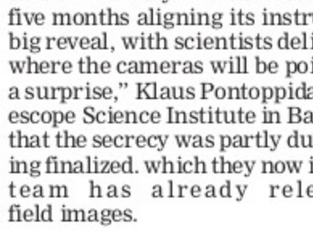
ADHD is a disorder with symptoms of inattention such as distractibility and disorganization.

There is no question that living with ADHD presents real and persistent challenges.

But today adults with ADHD have greater access to information and more evidence-based treatment options. And there are scientifically supported reasons for optimism and hope about effective treatment for adult ADHD. To date, the main strategies for managing ADHD in adults are medication and a type of therapy called cognitive behavioural therapy for adult ADHD.

FACT OF THE MATTER

Elephants kill 60 Zimbabweans



ENVIRONMENT

Sixty Zimbabweans have been killed by elephants so far this year, as a conservation success story has led to increased conflict with humans, the government spokesman said on Tuesday. With 100,000 elephants, Zimbabwe has the world's second-largest population after Botswana, and about one-quarter of the elephants in all of Africa. Unlike in much of the world, where poachers have killed off the animals for their tusks, Zimbabwe's elephant population is growing at about 5% a year. "In some areas, elephants are moving in numerous herds and have devoured everything in the fields and are now moving into homesteads, forcing community members to retaliate, in the process injuring some of the elephants," government spokesman Nick Mangwana said on Twitter.

Webb telescope's cosmos images

SPACE

The James Webb Space Telescope will produce "spectacular colour images" of the cosmos in mid-July — its first observations dedicated to its mission of scientific discovery, an astronomer overseeing the project said on Monday. The successor to Hubble has spent the last five months aligning its instruments in preparation for the big reveal, with scientists deliberately remaining coy about where the cameras will be pointed. "We'd really like it to be a surprise," Klaus Pontoppidan, a scientist at the Space Telescope Science Institute in Baltimore told reporters, adding that the secrecy was partly due to the first targets not yet being finalized. which they now intend to work through. Webb's team has already released a series of star field images.

50% chance of Earth crossing warming threshold by 2026

The world is creeping closer to the warming threshold international agreements are trying to prevent, with a nearly 50% chance that Earth will temporarily hit that temperature mark within the next five years, teams of meteorologists across the globe predicted on Monday. Let's take a look that the globe will reach a yearly average of 1.5 degrees Celsius (2.7 degrees Fahrenheit) above pre-industrial levels of the late 1800s at least once between now and 2026. The odds are inching up along with the thermometer. Last year, the same forecasters put the odds at closer to 40% and a decade ago it was only 10%.

1.7°C

The annual mean global surface temperature is predicted to be between 1.1 °C and 1.7°C higher than pre-industrial levels for each year between 2022 and 2026

93%

The team, coordinated by the United Kingdom's Meteorological Office, in their five-year general outlook said there is a 93% chance that the world will set a record for hottest year by 2026.

LA NINA MAY END THIS YEAR

The world is in the second straight year of a La Nina, the opposite of El Nino, which has a slight global cooling effect but isn't enough to counter the overall warming of heat-trapping gases spewed by the burning of coal, oil and natural gas, scientists said. The five-year forecast says that La Nina is likely to end late this year or in 2023.

ARCTIC WARMING TO CONTINUE

On a regional scale, the Arctic will still be warming during the winter at a rate three times more than the globe on average over the next five years

EXCEED 1.5 DEGREE CELSIUS

We are very likely to exceed 1.5 degrees C in the next decade or so, but it doesn't necessarily mean that that working to reduce further change is not worthwhile.

ABNORMAL CONDITIONS

While the American Southwest and southwestern Europe are likely to be drier than normal the next five years, wetter than normal conditions are expected for Africa's often arid Sahel region, northern Europe, northeast Brazil and Australia, the report predicted.

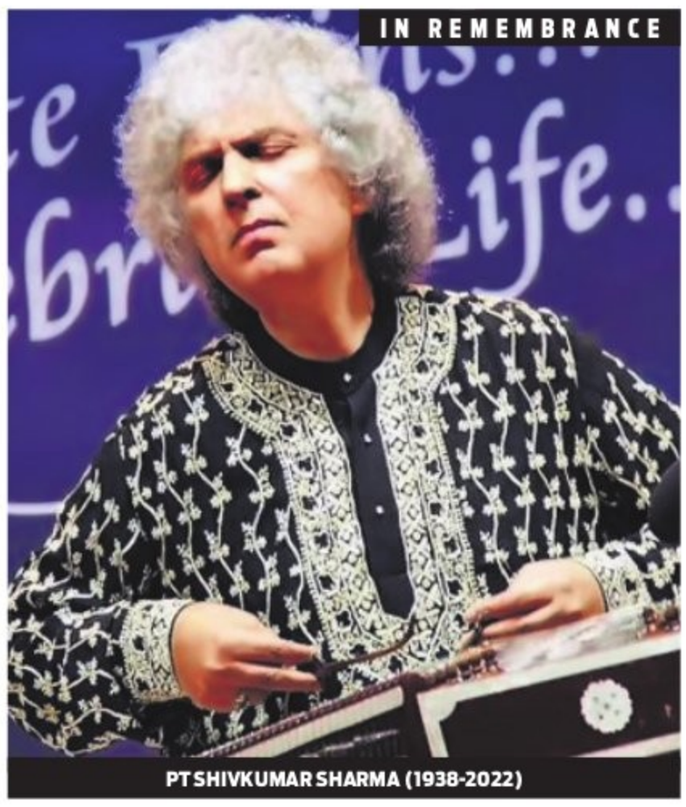
IN REMEMBRANCE



PT SHIVKUMAR SHARMA (1938-2022)

'HUGE VOID IN THE WORLD OF CLASSICAL MUSIC'

Manasi Prasad
is a classical musician and director, Indian Music Experience Museum (IME)

INDIA has seen very few artistes who are synonymous with an instrument. Pt Shivkumar Sharma and the santoor were made for each other. In many ways, he defined the instrument and the instrument defined him. Losing Pt Shivkumarji has left a huge void in the world of classical music and beyond.

Panditji's live concert I attended at the Indian Institute of Management, Bangalore, will always remain a fond memory. Panditji performed at Yamini, an all-night music festival. I was a student back then, and an organiser of the event. I remember I could hear them tune the instrument and I quickly became curious about how such a subtle and feeble-sounding instrument would be carried to the audience.

Santoor is an instrument that doesn't have the continuity of notes, a key to Indian classical music. The notes are discrete like it is in the piano. So, it naturally doesn't lend itself to the 'gamakas'. But Panditji overcame the natural limitations of the instrument, not just with his skills, but with his vision of music. Despite being separate, you could hear the continuity in the notes when he played it.

I was fascinated with how he was able to mesmerise the audience — just him, his santoor, and the tabla artiste, yet he managed to enthral thousands of people. His distinct visual identity with his unruly, curly mop of hair added to his personality. Santoor was predominantly in the folk genre, and did not have a place in the classical music arena. It was elevated to a respected and loved instrument because of his genius. This contribution will remain long after he is gone.

The range of formats in which his genius mind worked will always stand out. Panditji has done memorable jugalbandis with prominent Hindustani artistes. He shared a long collaboration with artistes across the spectrum — Pandit Hari Prasad Chaurasia, Amjad Ali Khan and Lalgudi Jayaraman.

Pt Shivkumarji's seminal album, Call of the Valley, with Hari Prasad ji and Brij Bhushan Kabra defined the sound of Indian music in the west. It was an introduction to the intricacies in classical music. His contribution to the films is of immense value. Tracks from the movies like Silsila, Lamhe, Faasle will remain in the annals of history. His range of expression was really astounding.

Pandit Shivkumarji personified the liveliness of music, he added effervescence to it. His musical presence instantly brought joy to one's heart. I will always remember his gentle smile. He will always remain an inspiration because of his courage and the vision to chart and adhere to uncharted courses. His music was about having the vision to see something nobody saw — the potential of santoor as an Indian classical musical instrument.

(As told to Ishrath Mubeen)

SILENT NIGHT

The last time I heard Shivji live was from the backstage at the Music Academy in Chennai a couple of years ago. It was a tribute to another legend, Mandolin U Shrinivas. I always found Shivji to have a towering presence. And the same limpid, translucent quality would transcend to the keys of the santoor. "Same principles as the piano — hammer to the strings," he had once said. The void is big. The intensity and passion that Shiv ji expressed through his music leaves a silence that is as keenly felt as it resonates with the echoes of his santoor.

EXPAT CHEFS IN THE CITY ARE INTRODUCING LOCAL FLAVOURS FROM ACROSS THE WORLD TO BENGALUREANS WHO ARE WELL-TRAVELLED AND EAGER TO EXPERIMENT

CULINARY ADVENTURES

ANILA KURIAN

FOR a city that loves to experiment with new cuisines and styles, expat chefs are finding Bengaluru to be a great place to set up shop. Which is why many of them are gently pushing their home cuisines in Bengaluru.

The latest entrant here is Boteco, a Brazilian restaurant in Ashok Nagar. Though it's just been three weeks since the opening, Brazilian expats and locals have been frequenting the place on Magrath Road. Brazilian chef Guto Souza, who created the menu, always wanted to work in Bengaluru after he first came to India in 2004. "I thought I'd stay here for one or two years and learn the cuisine. But I ended up staying for 11 and opened up a couple of restaurants in Goa," says Souza. This is the third branch in the country after Pune and Mumbai. "Ninety per cent of the ingredients we use are locally sourced, but surprisingly, many of the items are available here. While we keep a majority of it to its original flavours, in some cases, we end up using Indian ingredients," explains Souza.

If you've been browsing on Instagram, the chances of seeing the delicious French desserts offered at Cafe Plume are pretty high. In fact, in April, Consul-General of France in Bengaluru, Thierry Berthelot, visited the cafe and posted on social media saying: "Plume. delicacies brings you the best desserts & the feel of a French cafe in the heart of #Bengaluru - #Indiranagar, This dream turned reality also promotes sustainability through its procured local ingredients and eco-friendly packaging. Make it your next stop for sheer indulgence! (sic)"

Co-owned by Aurélie Lalande, she moved to Bengaluru in 2016 to pursue a fashion job. After some time, she wanted to do something on her own in the culinary world as she is also trained in it in France. She opened Cafe Plume where she serves authentic dishes from her country.

"There's a lot more freedom to run a business here than in Europe. Even when you tell someone back home that you're planning to set up a business, they'll always scare you with the procedures and paperwork. Compared to that, I felt it's much easier here as things get done faster," says Lalande, who is still contending with the frequent power cuts.

Aurélie Lalande

Guto Souza

Chef Amiel Guerin of Amiel Gourmet started three years ago as a catering business. While they still primarily work as one, they have two dine-in places — Amiel Gourmet in Sahakarnagar and Yelahanka. Specialising in modern European cuisine, Guerin saw the potential to open his own business in Bengaluru after working at Cafe Noir for five years.

"The competition in my field is less compared to Europe. The risk is also lower here. Although it was tough in the beginning, I learnt patience and understood the mindset of people here. A difference in work culture is that there are fewer people working in the kitchen in Europe but more hands doing the same job in India," he explains.

With Bengalureans being a well-travelled lot, he points out that introducing authentic food has been fairly easy. "Customers are no longer looking for masala in their food and neither do they want it Indianised," he says.

14-year-old swimmer Ridhima Veerendra Kumar, who bagged three golds at the South Africa National Swimming Championships 2022, on the big win...

MONIKA MONALISA

AS a sportsperson, irrespective of age, no emotion comes close to the joy of winning a gold for the country. 14-year-old swimmer Ridhima Veerendra Kumar, is no different. Kumar, bagged three golds at the South Africa National Swimming Championships 2022, with athletes from the world taking part in the event.

The teen from Bengaluru grabbed medals in the 100m backstroke, 200m backstroke and the 800m freestyle events. "It's a whole different experience competing in another country. We got to train with South African coaches and their swimmers too," says Kumar.

Of late, swimming as a sport has been getting a lot of attention as Vedaant Madhavan, son of actor R Madhavan, recently won gold in the men's 800m freestyle at the Danish Open in Copenhagen. Kumar is quite happy with the positive attention the sport is getting. "Not just me, even seniors are doing pretty well too," says the student of Delhi Public School, South, who trains at the Basavanagudi Aquatic Centre.

The medals and glory don't come without a disciplined lifestyle and Kumar cannot emphasise its importance. Her day starts at 4.30 am and she is in the pool by 5 am. "I train in the mornings between 5.30 am and 8.30 am and evenings at the same time. In between, I have school and the gym to balance," says Kumar, who takes care of her nutritional needs with home-cooked meals.

Kumar still remembers how she was deeply driven to try swimming at the age of five. "My brother used to train at the Sports Authority of India (SAI). While he was training, my mother and I were once taking a walk near the pool. As soon as I saw water, I wanted to give it a try. There was this instant connection," recalls Kumar.

With so much limelight, Kumar is quite secure about how her friends treat her and glad that nothing has changed. "My friends don't judge me on my achievements," says Kumar, who feels she still has a long way to go.

Dr Nandita Iyer's new book is all about inspiring people to go back to using their hands and make everyday products

ANILA KURIAN

DR NANDITA Iyer is no stranger to those who have been following the social media page SaffronTrail. She's the author of The Everyday Healthy Vegetarian and Everyday Superfoods and now she's out with her latest book This Handmade Life: 7 Skills to Enhance and Transform Your Everyday Life, published by Penguin Random House. This book, with seven sections — baking, fermenting, self-care, kitchen gardening, soap-making, spices and stitching — is an attempt to inspire people to take up more handmade projects.

Released earlier this week, Iyer started work on the book during the pandemic. "During the subsequent lockdown, we saw the most unlikely people taking up home projects. That's when I felt that if the pandemic can make people more self-sufficient, and focus on handmade products, then why not adopt it for the future as well," she says. From soap-making to gardening and stitching, she has been doing this for more than a decade now. "I find a sense of calm when I work on it and it helps my mental health. So, I've included 52 projects in the book which means that there's a new project to work on every weekend of the year," she adds.

While most of us use our hands now to click buttons and scroll on the phone, Iyer feels we need to go back to the basics once again.

"You don't need to be an expert at everything. The book primarily has stories, recipes, interviews with experts which inspire you to use your hands once again instead of using your phone all the time. We've become a generation of instant gratification because everything is easily available. But perhaps, we can learn a new skill and at least know how to make the most used items in our house," she adds.

Her favourite part of the book is the soap-making section. In fact, during the lockdown, she used to share her soap-making projects on Instagram and was often asked for recipes. "But it's such an elaborate process — there are many do's and don'ts, safety precautions and reasons why each ingredient is added to it. I finally had the space to explain all of that in the book and I had so much fun doing it," explains Iyer.

Each section of the book starts with an interview of an expert in the field. It also has inputs about how to do your market research, promote it on social media and how to turn it into a business.

"Every recipe and method shared has been tried and tested by me, so I have the confidence to say it's something one can make at home," she says, adding that the book is about meditation in motion. She hopes people will be inspired by reading the book, and will make time to create rather than just consume. "Even if they read my book and try recipes from other sources, I will be happy," she says.

To kids who finished their Board exams

(Writer, comedian)

As summer draws to a close, a select population of the country is tensed. Tenth standard students will spend the next few weeks in fear, tension and prayers. For students, the madness of March is better than the anxiety of April, followed by the misery of May. You get to make calendars and countdowns to March, you go through text books, guidebooks, YouTube videos, and previous years' question papers. You're prepped up with pre-Boards, mock exams, along with the entire universe around you preparing you for the exams in March. But the summer is filled with prayers and hopes.

As it is, I feel bad for the kids appearing for their tenth Board exams this year. Just when they entered puberty in eighth standard, the pandemic robbed them of innocent, teenage love. Eight standard is when we become aware of genders, our bodies, and attraction to the opposite/same gender. The age when hormones compel you to borrow a pencil or steal a glance.

My memories take me back to when I had just finished my Board exams. The world was a different place in the summer of 2002. Without smartphones or apps, you simply waited till 4 pm to sneak out and play with friends.

The biggest blockbusters were released in summer, or you could simply cycle down to the nearest cyber cafe to discover the joys of the newly discovered Internet. Unfortunately, I did none of the above.

I spent the summer of 2002 cooped up in my room, pouring over the question papers, trying to calculate how much I would have scored. I've never prayed as much as I did in the summer of 2002, and I'm positive that all the gods in heaven must have been overwhelmed by the sheer number of prayers that came flying up from my home. I guessed, and second-guessed, and spent the month hoping and praying that my life isn't ruined in the coming weeks!

To the boys, girls, and friends beyond the binary who appeared in the Board exams this year, I'd suggest — just chill. I'm nobody to preach that marks do not matter. But I can vouch for the fact that the 10th Board exams aren't the life or death matter that they're made out to be. If you aren't in the top 10 or bottom 5 per cent of your class, the exams won't really be life changing. You'll be given many more opportunities to change your life, and today's world offers careers in sports, music and entrepreneurship as rewarding alternatives.

If you know anybody who appeared in their Board exams this year, show them this column. Remind them to spend the summer eating mangoes and drinking buttermilk. Honestly, there's nothing better than having NOTHING to do for an entire month.

If you absolutely HAVE to pray, pray that a new variant of Covid doesn't land at our doors. Else, you'll have to read another variant of this column, after having spent your +2 years in your home too!

India's publishing industry bounces back after the pandemic

THE road ahead is promising for the publishing industry as it emerges from the pandemic with a resounding bang and learns a number of lessons from the experience of the past two years. Not losing a sense of purpose and of community, nimbleness, not working in silos, noticing subliminal sales shifts, attention to ebooks and audio books, integrating with the digital space, adopting better social media strategies and a steep rise in the demand for Indian literature are the pointers to the future. "Books were actually a trusted companion for many a reader during the pandemic years; not only did people read new books that were being published, but they re-read old favourites, and they also read some of the books that they had been meaning to, but hadn't found time for," Udayan Mitra, Executive Publisher of HarperCollins India, said.

"It is heartening to see how many books were published - and read and appreciated - during the very difficult times of the pandemic," he added. — IANS

'THE AUDIENCE STILL BELIEVES IN ME'

Actor Shanvi Srivatsava, who was last seen in Avane Srimannarayana is back with a horror film, Kasturi Mahal, which is slated to release on May 13

A SHARADHAA

It's been over three years since the audience got to see Shanvi Srivatsava on the silver screen. After a long sabbatical, The *Avane Srimannarayana, t*he heroine is back in action with the horror film Kasturi Mahal. The 50th film of veteran director Dinesh Baboo is slated to hit the theatres this week.

Ahead of the film's release on May 13, Shanvi talks about the reason for the 'break' from Kannada cinema, her liking for horror subjects, working with the senior director, and more. She feels that the pandemic has changed the way the entertainment industry works today. "I didn't see any new or big films going on floors during the pandemic. All the films that got released now, were already in the making during that time. More importantly, there is a rumour in the industry that I work only in big films, this is a prime reason why a lot of directors didn't approach me. I want to go with good directors and scripts rather than a scale of the film. However, my formula has always been having one commercial project in hand, regardless of language, before signing a content or women-oriented script."

Shanvi Srivatsava

About Kasturi Mahal, a film that she took up post the first wave of the pandemic, she says, "Horror has always been my favourite genre. I started my Kannada film journey with a horror film, Chandralekha, and after 7 years, Kasturi Mahal has allowed me to revisit it."

The actor adds that the script was good, and she believed that senior directors like Dinesh Baboo bring more authenticity to the genre. "New age directors usually try to mix comedy or other elements with horror. So I went ahead with the subject conceived by a veteran director. The making of Kasturi Mahal might be a little old school, but I believe it will be nice. I am yet to watch the film on the silver screen," says Shanvi, who mentioned that there are a lot of aesthetics in this horror film. "There is not much bloodshed and extreme violence. But the film retains its core horror feel."

A still from Kasturi Mahal

She draws comparisons Dinesh Baboo and the young upcoming filmmakers. "I saw a huge difference between a proven director and new-age filmmakers, who are surrounded by huge competition. The director, who is doing his 50th film, had a lot of clarity. While there are directors who take 10 different shots, and here is a director, who would just finish it with one shot. Even though I had my doubts, he was confident. Experience matters!"

Shanvi shares that her next film Bang too is experimental and it will be out in June. She is also looking forward to the release of her Malayalam debut, Mahaveeryar, which is slated for a July release. "I have been getting a lot of offers from the Malayalam industry. But I want to wait for Mahaveeryar to release as that will pave my way to interesting scripts. The Malayalam film might also open doors for me in Tamil. A couple of Hindi filmmakers, who have seen the rushes of Mahaveeryar have got in touch with me. Everything is at the preliminary stages. There are a few projects, to which I agreed to be a part, but I'm yet to make it official," says Shanvi, who signs off by saying, "The audience still believes in me. They are still curious about my projects and this urges me to do better. 2022 has been a fresh start, and I want to make the best use of it and keep doing good films.

Cast of Modern Love Mumbai on boundaries, bickerings and Bombay...

'LOVE WINS ALL BATTLES ACROSS THE WORLD'

Arshad Warsi, Chitrangada Singh, Pratik Gandhi, Ranveer Brar, Meiyang Chang and Wamiqa Gabbi on their segments in Modern Love Mumbai, premiering this week on Amazon Prime Video

THE only strange thing about an Indian Modern Love announcement was the original source of the stories. The famous anthology series, which has completed two seasons in the US, is based on the long-running New York Times column of the same name—weekly personal essays on love and relationships with the city as character. And the same column—written by and for Americans—is now the source of Modern Love Mumbai. Will it make sense?

"Our writers have done a phenomenal job adapting these stories," assures Pratik Gandhi, star of the Hansal Mehta-directed segment Baai. In the film, set between 90s and present-day Mumbai, a gay Muslim boy falls for a US-returned chef, and hides it from his family. In a charming casting choice, Ranveer Brar, one of our best US-returned chefs around, plays the love interest. Ranveer has been offered acting gigs before, though exclusively for "horrendous villains in movies from the south." Naturally, he needed reassuring when Hansal rung him up for a part in Baai.

"Being a chef, this is a role I've prepped for all my life," Ranveer says. "Hansal told me we'll do a lot of cooking on set. We made nihari, kimami sewai, yakhni pulao. I was obviously playing a character but also adding everything from my life into it."

Pratik spotlights Hansal's 'human' approach in exploring queerness in a conservative urban setting. "It's not like (the family) is reacting out of negligence of the whole concept. It's more from fear of how they will be perceived. Everyone is afraid how Baai, my character's ailing grandmother played by Tanuja ji, will react."

The actors sound hopeful on the future of LGBTQ+ rights in India (Gay marriages, despite the decriminalisation of homosexuality in 2018, don't have legal recognition in India.)

"The legislation will take its due course," Ranveer says. "But I think as a society we have come a long way in terms of acceptance." "Love wins all battles across the world," Pratik adds.

Veg-Non Veg

Family and food is also at the centre of Mumbai Dragon, directed by Vishal Bhardwaj. Meiyang Chang plays an Indian-Chinese boy in love with a vegetarian North Indian (Wamiqa Gabbi). Expectedly, the boy's fastidious mother, played by Malaysian-Singaporean actor Yeo Yann Yann, raises hell.

"It's a classic story told through the perspective and cultural nuances of an Indian-Chinese family," Meiyang says. Growing up in Dhanbad, in Jharkhand, Meiyang had a multi-cultural upbringing, his understanding of chinese cooking perennially coloured by local pallettes and interpretations. "My father is from Patna, my mother is from Mumbai; my grandmother is from Ahmednagar who's lived in Kolkata for many years. Food at home was always a mix of these influences."

In the trailer, Wamiqa is referred to as a 'vegetarian dayan (witch)', a funny diss she doesn't fully denied, having turned vegan some years ago. The actor says she had fun clashing onscreen with Yann, who's making her Hindi debut in Mumbai Dragon (she also helped source rare Chinese ingredients from Singapore). "I didn't know she is just five years elder to Meiyang," Wamiqa shares. "She is terrific in the film."

Chai for your soul

Away from knotty family dynamics, Nupur Asthana's Cutting Chai homes in on a married couple in South Bombay. Latika (Chitrangada Singh) regrets not fulfilling her writing ambitions; her husband, Danny (Arshad Warsi), shimmies in an Elvis outfit and doesn't seem to care. A detour to the Chhatrapati Shivaji Terminus (formerly VT station) provides them with an epiphany.

"Love stories are always universal," Chitrangada says. "We brought in the texture of the city into our tale, from the local trains to cutting chai. I play a real, relatable, slightly unhappy woman, which we all are (laughs)." Arshad is offended we even asked him about acing his Elvis moves. "I'm a dancer, man!" he retorts.

We end by asking the actors about their most romantic memory of Mumbai. Pratik recalls performing his first play at Prithvi theatre; Meiyang and Wamiqa invoke the rains. Arshad talks of 'nightclubs open till 6am' and a freedom to 'get whatever you want'. It's Ranveer, though, who supplies the most striking anecdote.

"In 2012, I had just return from the US. My cab driver, a Muslim gentleman, told me it's a blessed time to come to Mumbai, since it was the day of Ganpati Visarjan. He said 'yeh seher apko jamega' (this city will suit you). The moment is forever etched in my memory."
